Look at the pieces of a puzzle
Presented as separate parts.
Look closely at each piece
No two are alike.
The designs of each one is different
Expressing its own part within the puzzle,
And when they are fitted together
The lines disappear and a picture results.

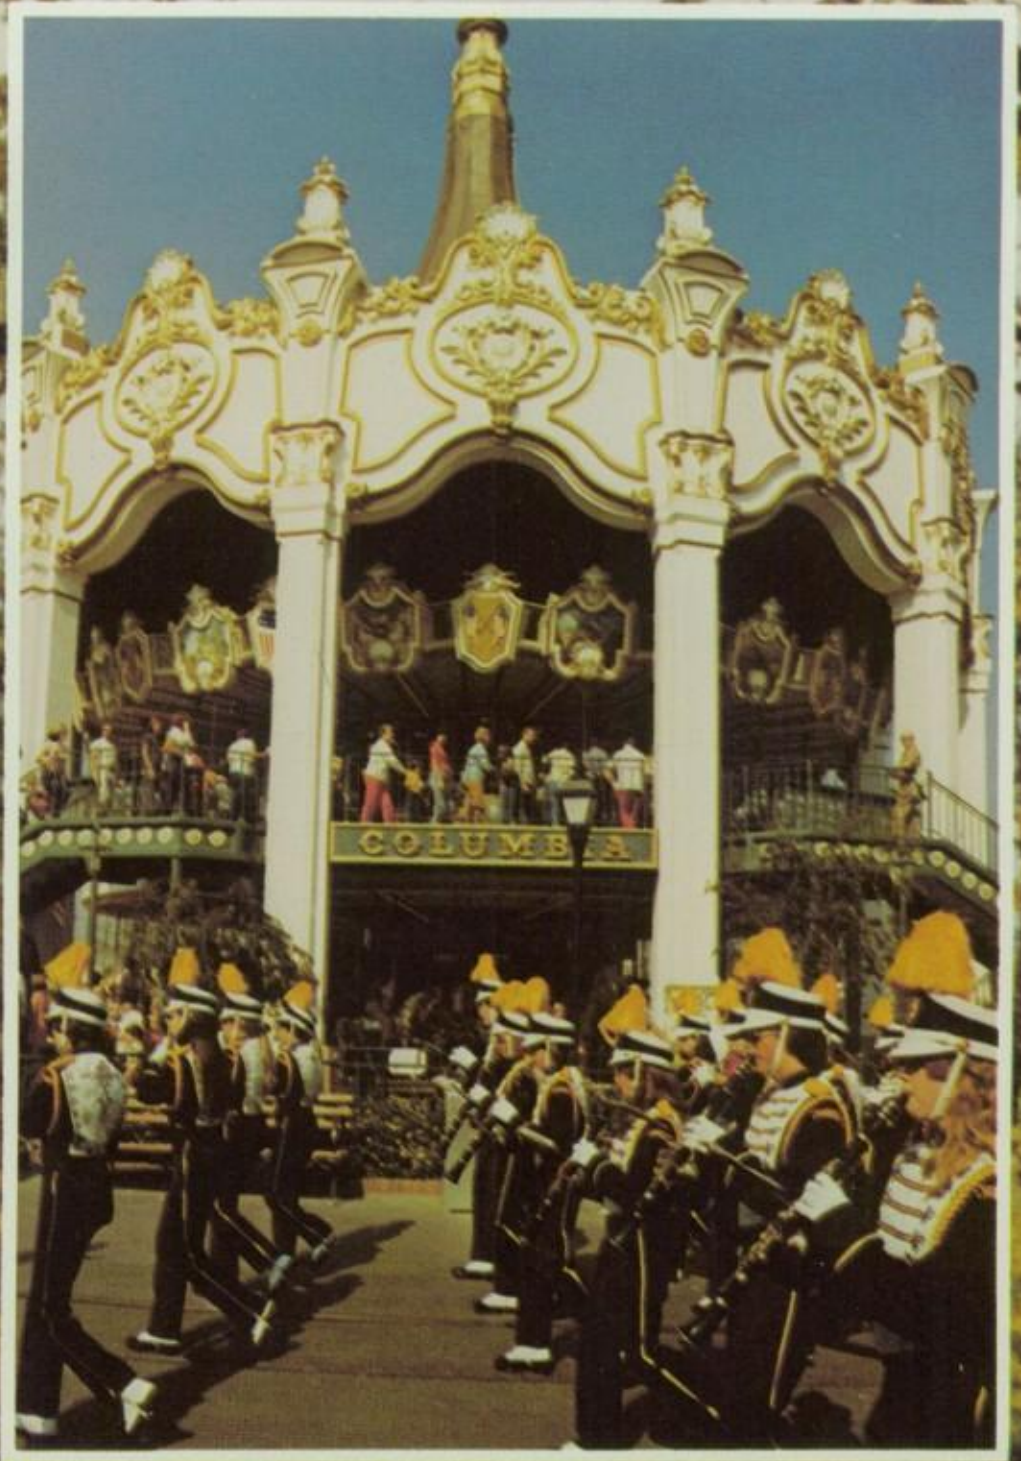

We are the pieces of this puzzle
Presented as individuals.
Look closely at each person
No two are alike.
The expression on each face is different
Reflecting individuality within the whole,
And when they are fitted together
The separations disappear and a portrait of us results.

A Time for Togetherness
and a Time for Individuality

Let's Make A Future

The night before his high school graduation, Pete sat on his bed thinking, when suddenly he found himself on the trading floor of the famous game show "Let's Make a Future." He was dressed in a graduation cap and gown.

Immediately the host stepped up and announced, "Pete, now that your senior year has arrived it's time to trade your thirteen years of schooling for what's behind door No. 1, door No. 2, or door No. 3."

Little did Pete know that behind door No. 1 was the key to higher education, a full scholarship to the school of his choice. A $15,000 a year position at Johnson Motors, a start in the world of business, lay waiting behind door No. 2. Behind door No. 3 was that evil twist of fate that can confront any one of us; $50 worth of food stamps.

Pete was shocked at the swift turn of events and stood bewildered at what would happen next. Then the host stepped up to the microphone and said, "Pete, you might change in the future, but from your record in your past thirteen years of schooling, you will receive all of what's behind door No. . ."

Since we were all seniors, we found ourselves facing the same three doors. Our years in high school have decided whether we will further our education, make a start in the world of business or end up with $50 worth of food stamps.

How do you feel about the East/West split?

I don't like it. I think the unity we had before was good.

Jenny Eifert

I don't like it. I feel that freshmen and sophomores should be at one school, and juniors and seniors at the other.

Cynthia Pohlman

It's good. It might have hurt some of our teams, but eventually it would have happened anyway.

Steve Peiffle

I think that it's bad, because it makes friends at the different schools become rivals. I can't think of anything good about it.

How do you feel about having a 25th reunion?

I'd love it. It would be a grin to see all these people again.

Judy Prepelica

We have a super class, and I think a lot of people would show up.

Karen Stanczak

A reunion would bring us all back together at least one more time.

Marty Ress

I'd love to see all the popular people come back in twenty five years and be slob.

Gale Grymkoski

I think we should have a ten-year reunion instead. I think it would be really exciting—I'd go for sure.

Sandy Michaels

During Marriott's Great America's opening season the Waukegan East Varsity Band was honored by an invitation to perform. After marching through the main gates, they entertained guests for half an hour on the steps of the Grand Music Hall.

How would you improve our school?

Fix the appearance. I know they're doing work now, but why couldn't they have done it over the summer, instead of when school started?

Rick Ekstrand

I would make a new building, and kick out all the jerks who mess up this school.

James A. Ross III

You can't do it by yourself. It has to be improved by each and every one. Not really the big building, but the people themselves. I wish we could all be a family, but it's so hard. There are so many different kinds of people, each having their own ideas.

What have you learned about other people?

I've learned that you should respect them for what they are, not what you want them to be.

Karen Alfino

I've found that people who you thought were stuck-up in junior high are really not so bad in high school. People are more mature, and they see people more as equals.

Nancy Killian

I've learned that there are many people with individual and unique personalities, which make them interesting to observe.

How do you feel about legalized abortion?

Whether the argument of "playing God" makes any sense or not, it still seems to me that we should individually be able to make the choice- not living with the standards of a government or a church.

Tracey Barnett

Terry Benson

I think every human being should have a chance to see the world.

Donna Maciukevicius

When a young teenager gets pregnant, she shouldn't have the child, because it wrecks her future and the child's.

Roberta Rundquist

I feel that if abortion is legal, there should be clauses and conditions written into the law to prevent abuse of the law. I think adoption agencies present a better solution.

Laura Kajfez

If they do not want the child, there are people who do.

Irene Colon

A fetus is as much alive as a four month old child. No way should the human race let anyone kill it.

Dawn Durrett

No one has the right to take a life but God.

Gloria Kynard

Although I may not agree with it, I think anyone who wants to should have the right to an abortion.

Vision of 2077

Did you ever stop to think what it would be like to spend your junior year in 2077? As we look into the future, we see Jr. Student driving the family spacevet to school. As he reaches the school, located on Jupiter, he pushes a button and his spacevet folds into a compact carrying case. Jr. has with him a box of seven-course meal capsules, which he is selling to raise money for the annual Big Dipper Dance, sponsored by the junior class. Throughout the year, they have various fund raisers, including a drive to collect used robot parts, rocket washes, and a Milky Way Marathon. The dance is held in the spring at the school's modular structure. Following the event, the Post Big Dipper Dance is held at Pierre's on Venus. At school, Jr. is on the computerized soccer team, Space Council, and the Astro Dog Booster Club. Though our present time can't offer computerized soccer, or post prom on Venus, hopefully you made your junior year "out of this world."

What do you expect of your Junior Prom?

I expect the best prom Waukegan East has ever seen.

Dru Sefton

I hope it to be the best night of my high school life.

Leslie Garcia

A date.

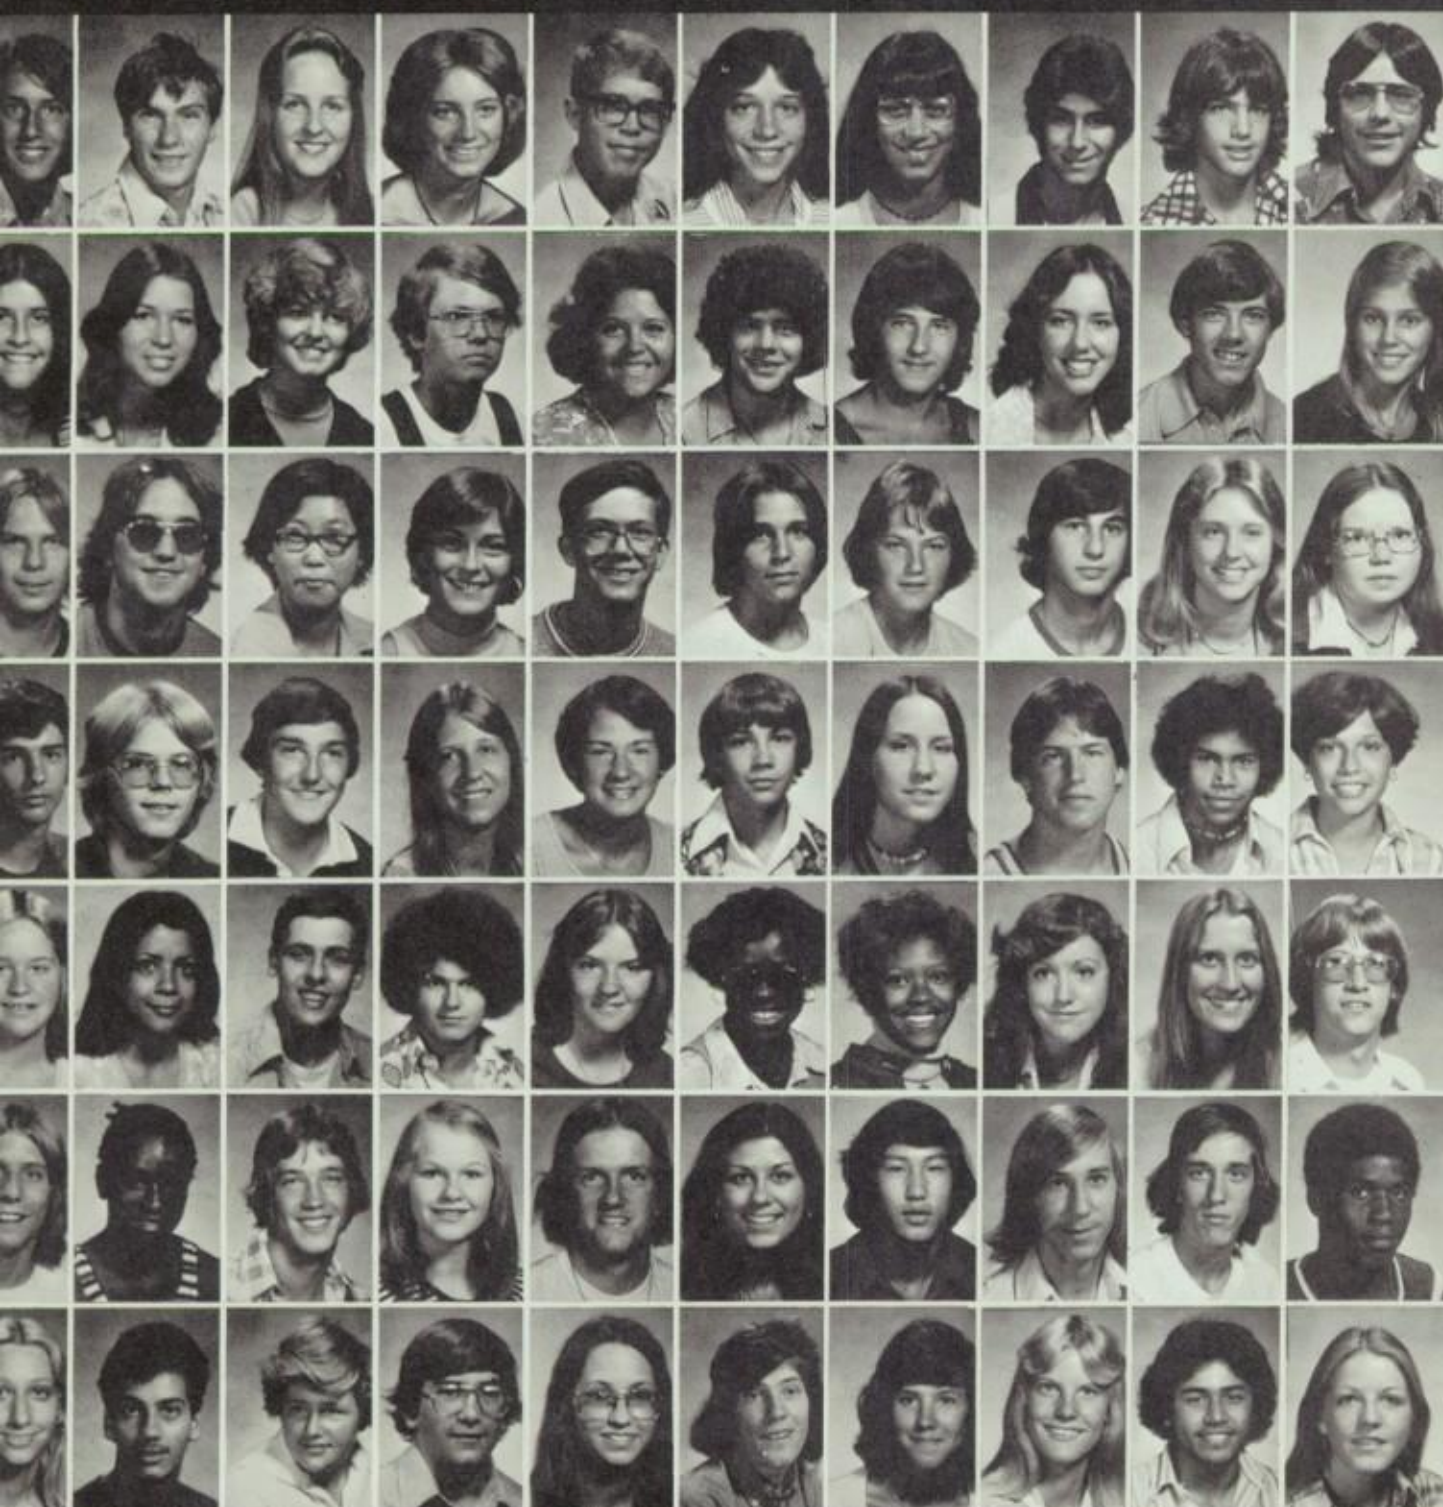

Cyndi Kostylo

I think it'll be really good, because a lot of juniors are involved with it.

Terry Pucin

I expect it won't turn out that well because of lack of involvement. We've had several things that have been voted on, such as the theme, and there's been no more than thirty people there. At the meetings, we don't seem to get anything done.

First, I didn't even know it. When I found out,
I was a little scared, because half the people

The Adventures of Erom

Our story begins with Erom in a very dark cave. Erom had been groping his way about this cave for a whole year. One day Erom came to realize that at last he knew the cave quite well for he had slowly felt his way all around. The rocks and crags no longer seemed as sharp or sinister to him as they had before. Finally feeling confident in his surrounding, Erom began to hustle about. The others like Erom in the cave began to do the same. They were all busying themselves with the activities of the cave when, creeping down the length of the cave, they spied another group. This group was much like Erom and his friends, but they seemed more sure of themselves in their bustling from nook to cranny. Past this group was yet another group. They were preparing to leave the cave and enter a far greater cavern, but they did not want to miss the wonders of the cave along the way. Erom had an idea. "Let's all stay together as we travel toward the great cavern," he cried. "That way we will reach our goal while we enjoy each other's company and share all of our experiences along the way." So off they went always to remain together.

How do you feel about having co-ed gym?

I think it's a lot of fun. It was really competitive.

Lisa Kerr

I don't like it—boys are better than girls in most everything, so it will be no fun for the boys.

Jeff Warner

I think it stinks. Guys don't want to folk dance, and girls don't want to play basketball with six foot tall guys.

Kathy Evoy

It's okay, but they should try football.

David Harris

It's good—it gives us a chance to meet more chicks.

How did you get more involved this year?

I met more people, and also timed at a lot of swimming meets. So far it's been a great year for me.

Marie Basco

I'm going to dances and going out for more activities.

Elizabeth Sanborn

I joined various clubs that I had an interest in. This year, I feel like I am more a part of the school, because I got involved.

Nancy Raetzman

I'm in Pom Poms, I'm a scorekeeper, and I am going out for Dolphins.

Monica Dryver

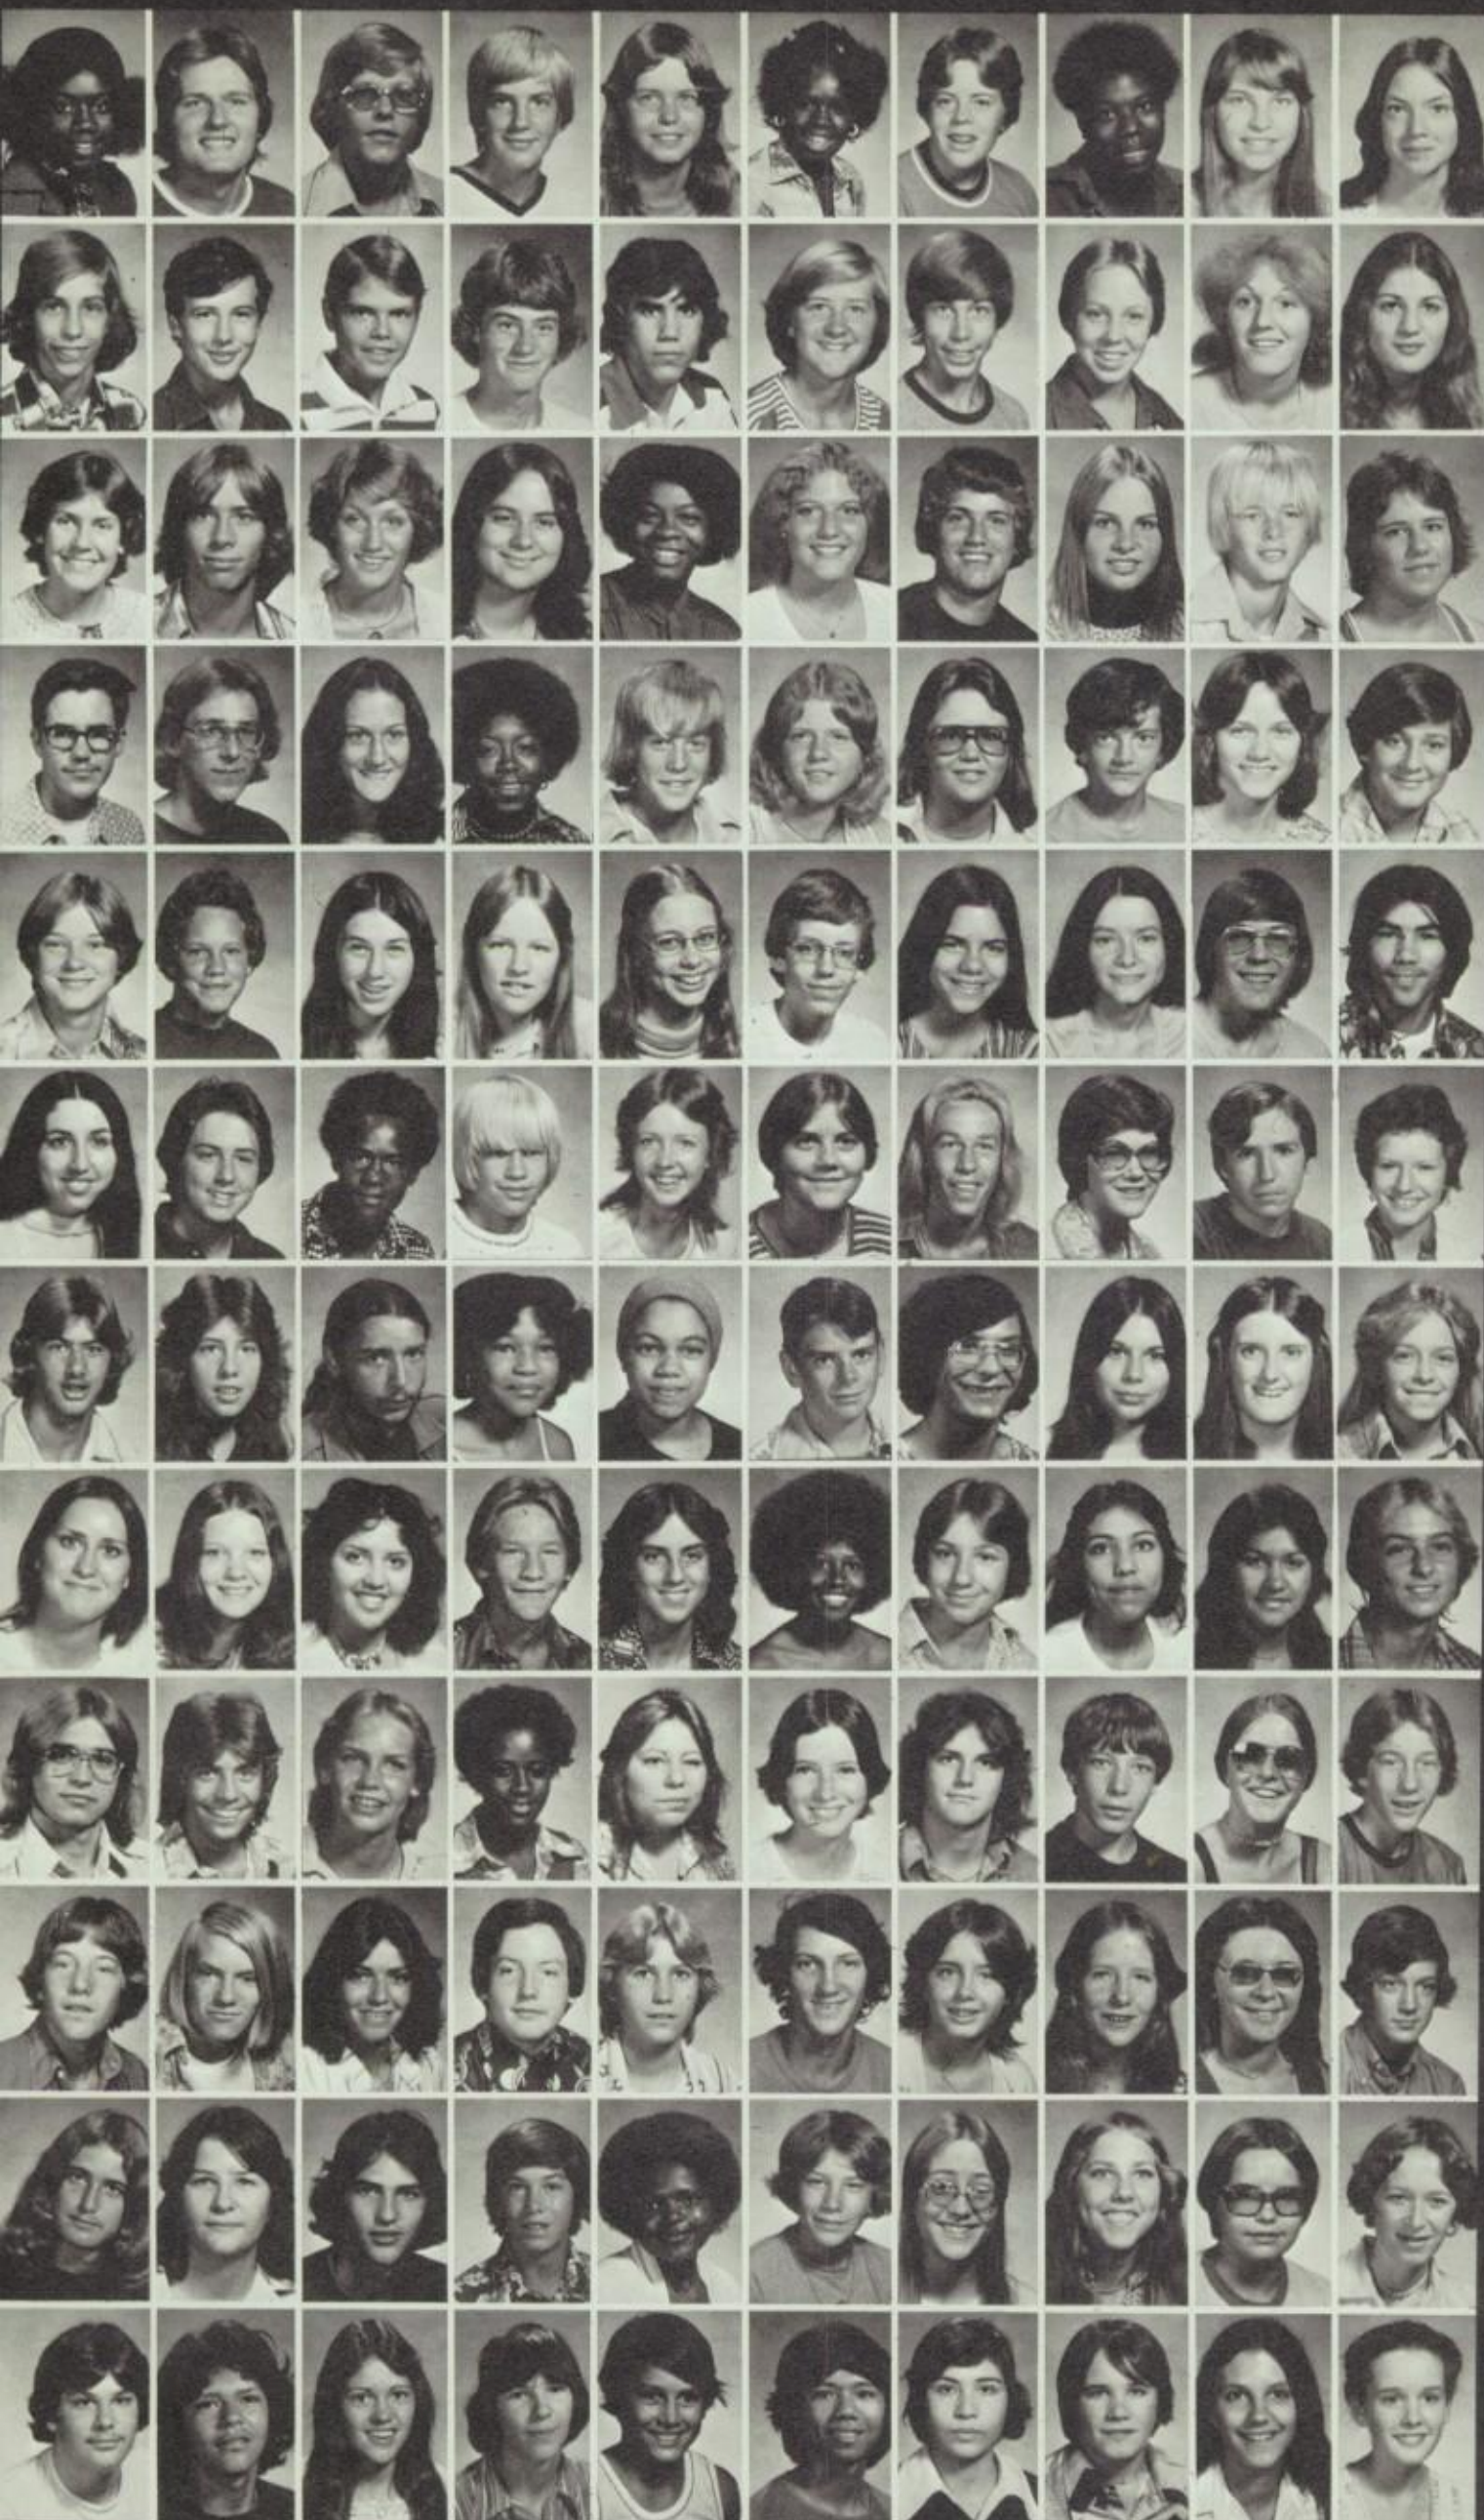

I know everybody this year, and I also know what to do.

How do you feel about the Equal Rights Amendment?

The ERA looks good on paper, and if we had an idealist society, it would be a perfect equality. The problem exists in the fact that society says one thing and does another. The change toward equality is going to take a long time, and no amendment is going to make it happen any faster.

Sue Jean Rush

True equality must be developed within oneself; it cannot be forced upon us by our government.

Bob Susman

I think women should remember they are women, and not act like animals and babbling idiots in these affairs of sexual equality.

Mary Juppe

Both sexes have rights in their favor right now

... it takes the changing of minds, not the changing of laws to change our system.

Sandy Carnahan

People should be given the same amount for performing the same task.

Eileen Schmid

If men and women were equal, we wouldn't need the Equal Rights Amendment.

Alan Freiberg

I think it is an excellent idea. Everyone should have equal rights to work. These rights should not be limited by sex.

The Land of Frosh

Once upon a time, when gnomes and elves ruled the world, there lived a small boy in the land of Frosh. The law of the land demanded that a boy of fourteen have his courage tested. The day came for the young boy to set out on this expedition in the surrounding countryside. The boy passed the day quickly by rescuing maidens, slaying dragons, and escaping armies. Just when the poor boy decided the adventure had ended, a giant flame shot beneath his feet. Fear crept through the child like lightning through the sky. Suddenly, from behind a mountain of rock, appeared a dragon of untold ugliness. The creature glared savagely at the boy, and prepared to explode his flames again. Courage filled the boy as he slew the evil dragon. He cut off its head and carried it back to Froshland. The victorious ceremonies were highlighted for the boy when his G.P.A. (Great Personal Achievement) was raised, and he was pronounced a true and able Froshman.

How do you feel about corruption in our government?

I think we need someone in there who can do the job without getting into a scandal.

Sandy Slay

I feel that the crimes should be corrected and the guilty people punished. Then it should be forgotten, not dragged on.

Laura Stewart

I feel that the government, if run by the people and for the people, doesn't have the right to hold anything back on the people.

Kim Rickett

I don't think they're telling us what's going on. I think they should be more open.

Scott Duncan

Corrupt government reflects a corrupt society and corrupt individuals. It makes me sad that it's this way.

Janie Garrett

I don't trust the government that much now.

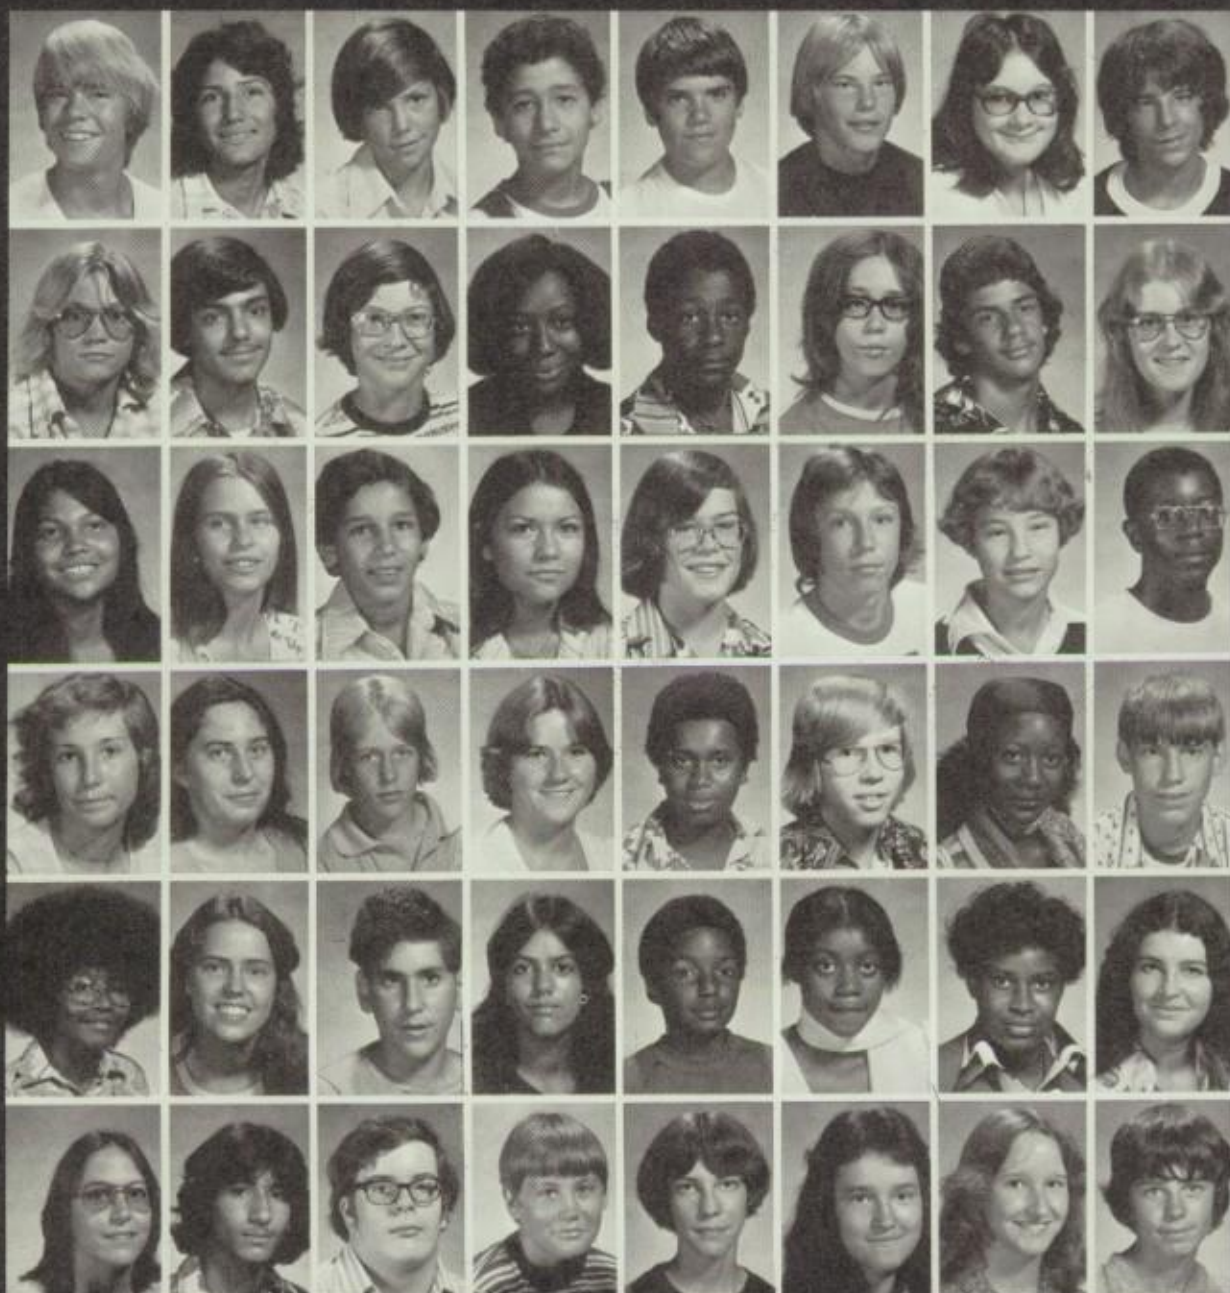

Paul Warner

It upsets me to think that people who have been elected to such high offices could do such stupid things, such as wire tapping, etc.

Lisa Dreyer

Corruption cannot be avoided in any type of government . . . I still think we have the best government in the world.

Do freshmen have more or less school spirit?

Freshmen have less school spirit . . . in most cases, they don't want to stick out.

Tina Petkousek

More school spirit- we care about the future of our school.

Renee Bradley

The majority of them have less, because a lot of them wait until they're older and more used to the school.

Sue Everett

Freshmen have more school spirit, because they want to be the best class ever at Waukegan East.

Sue Petersen

The ones who have more have it because they've started to become involved in school activities.

An Old Fashioned Love Song

An old fashioned park scene complete with trellises, wishing wells and park benches set the atmosphere for the 1976 prom "An Old Fashioned Love Song." Fridays, after school were spent in the boiler room making preparations under the direction of decoration chairpeople Mary Givler and Tim Snarski. A bridge was built for romantic strolls and for coronation of the prom queen Carrie Axotis.

At midnight couples drove through the fog and mist to Illinois Beach State Lodge to the Post Prom "It Happened One Night." A sit down dinner was served. Entertainment included music by Half-n-Half, numerous door prizes and the traditional cake.

Fund raisers for the 1976 prom included paper drives, pizza and candy sales and a valentine card service. Taking on these responsibilities were Carrie Axotis, Prom Chairperson, Jean Wolf, Post Prom Chairperson and their hard working crew.

After the excitement of Post Prom, many couples viewed the sunrise and then headed for breakfast. Others ran out of gas and decided to go home and catch up on their sleep. The following day the traditional prom picnic at Petrified Springs was held, wrapping up the weekend.

PROM COURT: Mary Scherwat, Sue Modica, Sherri Cribb, Barb Luka, Cindy Trombino, Carrie Axotis, Chris Morgan, Mary Givler, Jean Wolf, Ellen Whitaker, Linda Henry, and Debbie Warner.

The Junior's farewell Prom for the seniors is traditionally a romantic evening. On this night everyone feels special: dress is formal, and no one is a wallflower. Each couple has it's own style: tails, pastels, and basic black tuxedos can be seen as well as many different ways to dance.

Marty Ress, Barb Luka and Jean Wolf found a moment in their busy evening to enjoy a dance together while their dates took a break from the dance floor.

Just arriving at the prom, this foursome took a moment to view the decorations before joining other couples on the dance floor.

It can take weeks, even months, to construct a good Homecoming float but in only a couple of minutes, the product of all the hard work ends up in the garbage.

The Harvest Moon rose early in the week . . .

A week of fashions started off this year's homecoming festivities. On Tuesday, students honored the faculty by dressing in styles of past years, bringing back memories of the teachers' own high school days. Fashions included padded shouldered sweaters, ankle-length skirts and of course, bobby socks and saddle shoes. Student Council members added the finishing touch by distributing bright red apples to each teacher. Wednesday students dressed in Mix-n-match outfits, while on the next day students dressed as farmers to accent the Homecoming theme "Harvest Moon." Friday wrapped up the week as purple-n-gold day. Students exhibited spirit by wearing the traditional school colors. A pep rally ended the afternoon, arousing spirit for the games to follow on Saturday.

That evening, student gathered down at the lake front, reviving the tradition of a Homecoming Bonfire. Tom Whipple, Pete Dinger, and Jeff Hyde were granted permission to have the fire, with the city volunteering to build it and cover the expenses. HRD sponsored a band. As the final logs of the fire began to smoulder, the students started to depart, preparing for the rising of the "Harvest Moon."

For some drivers, Homecoming day created quite a problem when Washington Street was blocked off for the parade.

ROTC's first all girl Color Guard found an empty parking lot to warm-up for their march down Genesee Street.

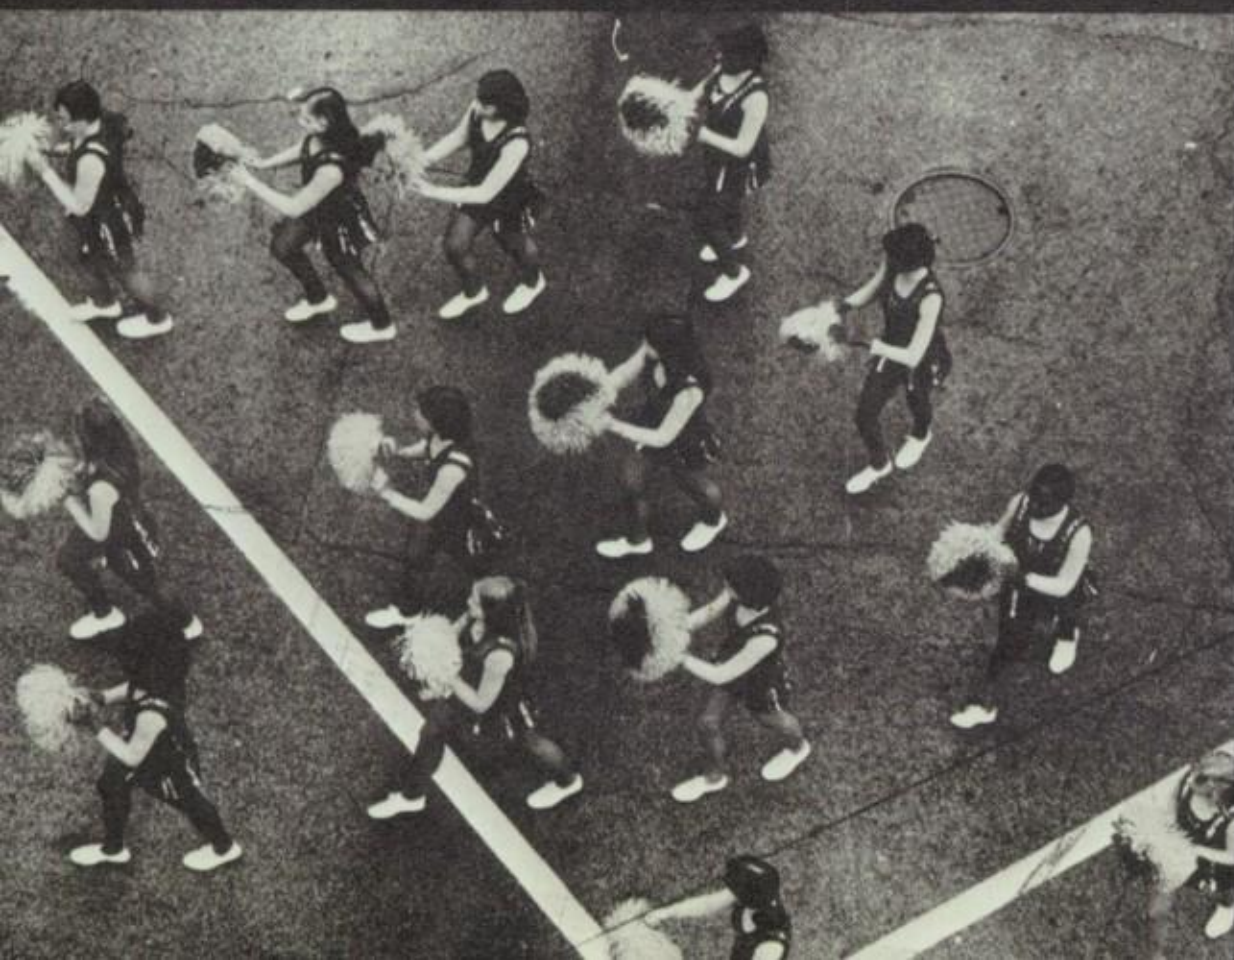

Under the Harvest Moon, in a corner of the main gym, Tom Eifert and Debby Hardin watched the band after coronation.

. . . shining on Homecoming Day activities . . .

Homecoming day dawned a bright and early 7:00 am with Debbie Pulaski and her crew decorating the football field. The decorations included spirit signs, streamer wrapped goalposts and a hanged warrior in a nearby tree. Those participating in the parade were downtown an hour early putting the finishing touches on their floats. S/M Brennen made sure everyone was in the proper order for the 10:00 procession to begin. All club members proudly displayed their floats to the judges, trying to accent their slogan, originality and the homecoming theme, "Harvest Moon." With the slogan "Bulldogs Plaster Warriors," FBLA took first place honors. National Honor Society and Spanish Club tied for second place. Scarecrows, clowns and even a Harvest Moon threw candy to the onlookers lining the streets.

Following the parade, the days activities continued with the football games. Unfortunately, the varsity, sophomore and freshmen grid teams were not successful. The only Homecoming victory came at the end of the day as varsity soccer defeated their opponents 2-1. The last few fans, cheerleaders, and athletes raced home to prepare for the exciting evening ahead.

The photographer caught the exact moment of elation, as Cindy Trombino was named Homecoming queen.

Underneath shining Harvest Moon, the 1976 Homecoming dance began. Marty Ress felt, the event was well-attended due to the hard work of many Student Council members. Publicity chairman Tracey Barnett began weeks before by placing miniature moons all over the school. Coronation was arranged by Chris Morgan and programs were designed by Bob Bleck.

Decorations, planned by Cyndi Kostylo, were put together in the boiler room after school. In a month's time a white picket fence, haywagons and scarecrows were constructed. An autumn atmosphere was achieved with colored streamers of brown, yellow, and orange and fallen leaves scattered along the outskirts of the dance floor. Real hay and pumpkins added an authentic touch to the scene.

Over 200 people danced to the music provided by Blackwater Gold. Time passed quickly and soon coronation ceremonies began. Each court member stepped through a gate and was escorted by her date down an aisle formed by the ribbonbearers, attendants, and pages. Emcees Doug Shroyer and Donna Ash pronounced Cindy Trombino the 1976 Homecoming Queen. The crown was placed upon her head and the traditional Queen's dance followed. Only a few couples stayed behind for the last dance.

Instead of the usual clean up following the dance, the decorations were left up for the next day's community In-Gathering.

The job of this parade participant didn't begin until after the horses passed by.

Student Council was the group that chose the Harvest Moon theme. Their float included their interpretation.

Dinner dance- a fresh idea for Military Ball

The 1977 Military Ball, "Stairway to Heaven", saw many changes from past years. It was held at the American Legion Hall, and was presented in the form of a dinner-dance. Since the event was combined with West High School, each school had its own court and queen. The guests of honor, Mr. Odorizzi and Mr. Greer, were seated at the head table along with all of the court members and their escorts.

The scene was decorated to achieve an overall "spring" effect. A gazebo complete with pastel ribbons and bright colors highlighted coronation. After being crowned, East's queen, Jean Miller, and West's Mary LaSalle carried baskets of flowers with sashes of their respective school colors. The attending couples danced until 11:00 to the music of "Slice".

Although the thought of matrimony at this early age never entered into the head of Steve Foster, Sanders Whitens offered him no choice at Rec Night's "Marriage Booth."

Student Council suggests a change of pace

Where else could one "T-P" his friend legally? Only at the annual Student Council sponsored Rec Night. Over twenty clubs pooled their ideas to supply many unique booths to partake in. It was possible to rent a slave, get married and dine in a French Cafe all in one night.

This year's three Gym-Jams allowed students to relax and enjoy themselves. Basketball and volleyball were just two of the ways to pass time.

After a week of exams, students celebrated the end of the semester with an evening of dancing. Debbie Ashe and Lawrie TenPas released their tensions to the music of Riff Raff.

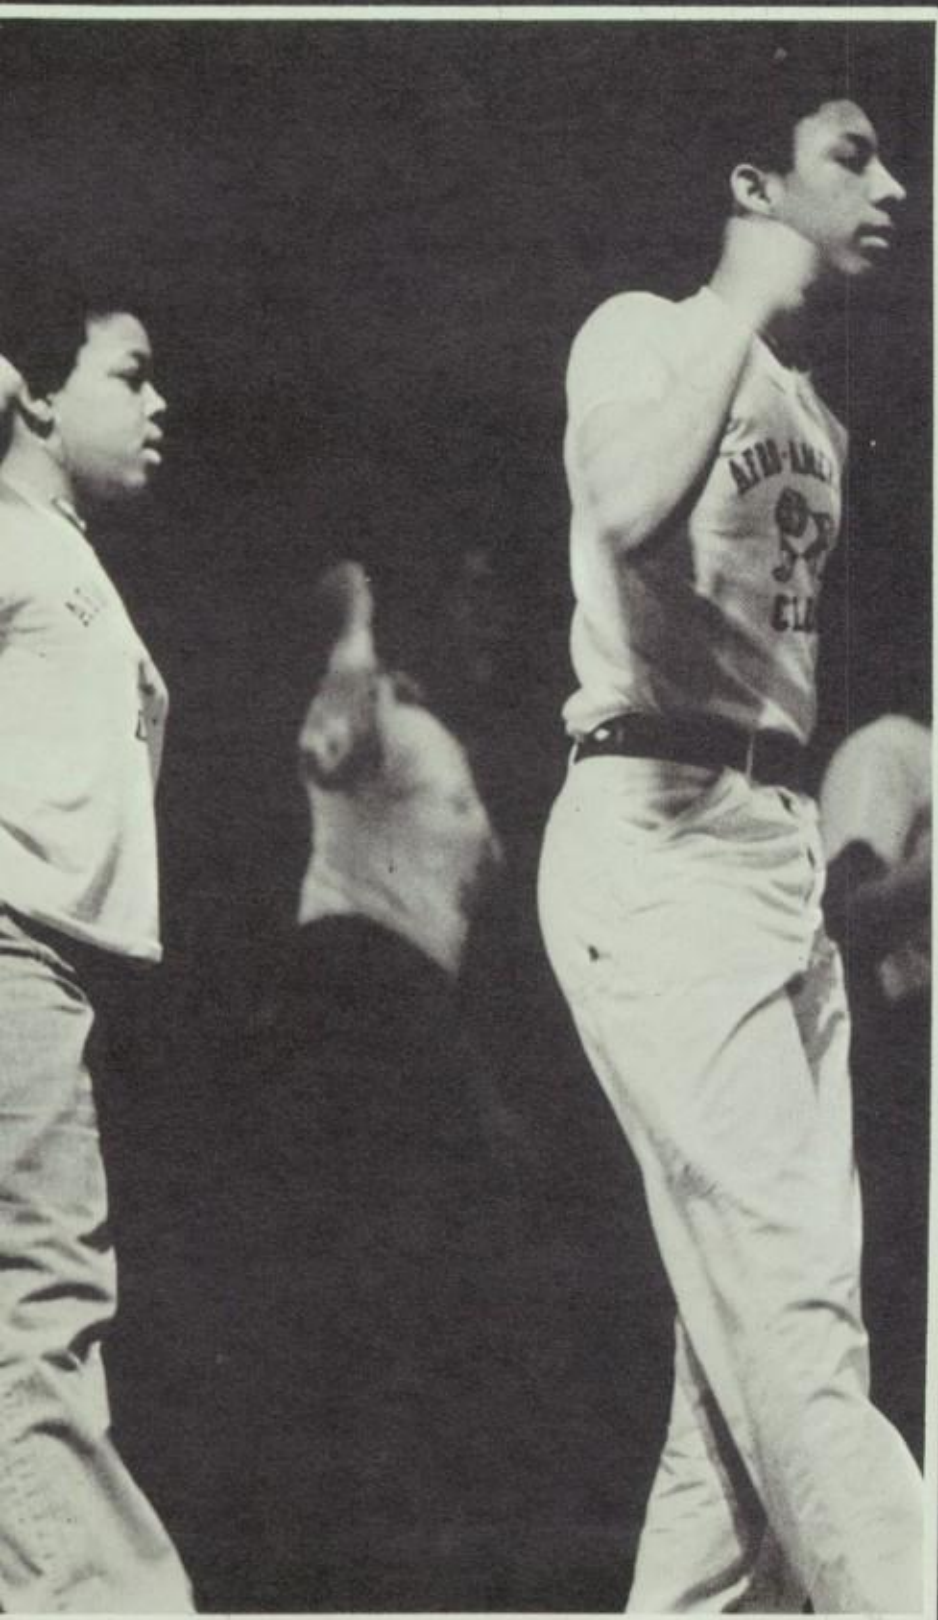

The Rock-Pop choir showcased their talent at the Christmas assembly, singing a Beatles medley with Mr. Albers providing the musical accompaniment.

Class meetings added to the assembly schedule

Assemblies began on the first day of school with Mr. Odorizzi commenting on student attitude, spirit, and involvement and continued periodically throughout the year. Included were a repeat performance by "La Tuna" from Barcelona, Spain; a "Black Excellence" program sponsored by the Afro-American Choir; and the traditional homecoming pep rally and Christmas assembly. A variation in the assembly schedule were class meetings, held in the South Building Little Theater. Organized by the guidance department and class officers, they informed individual classes on activities in the school.

Once again this year, the Spanish Club showed the East High student body that a Tuna isn't just a fish, but also a visiting folk-singing group from Spain.

One of the numbers featured in the Black History Week assembly was the fast-paced "Rhythmic Steppers", a series of synchronized dances performed by the Afro-American Club.

As a last minute replacement, Alfredo Robert, also general show chairman, delights the crowd with a comical dance routine to "Disco Duck".

Mrs. Alfino and Miss Dunn agree that an Italian atmosphere is pleasant as Mr. Milligan serenades them, singing a love song.

On performance night, these seniors girls saterized their favorite "school jock" in the "Ego Trip Strip".

Ms. Starck and Mr. Odorizzi set the scene for a typical conference between an Italian High School student and principal. Except in Italy there are no principals-only Godfathers.

A star is born

Once again, Student Council sought out the hidden talents at Waukegan East to present the annual student talent show. The audition judges, looking for originality and audience appeal, decided on twenty-four acts to compose "A Star is Born". An enthusiastic longstress captivated the audience with "Make 'Em Laugh". On the more serious side, guitarists accompanied soloists in "If", "Evergreen", and other selections. The emcees used comedy routines to keep the show flowing.

Faculty "talent" revealed

The faculty took a trip "around the world in eighty days" to put together their annual talent show. Co-workers Pat Brophy and Mary Dwan directed the cast who had modestly volunteered their performances. The script, consisting of musical numbers and comedy skits, was coordinated by Jean MacCready. "The show benefited more than the drama department and faculty funds," said Pat Brophy. "We had a fun time working together, while students got a chance to see our humorous side."

As a publicity stunt, the teachers did a take-off on the all school musical, singing two well-known songs: "Do-Re-Mi" and the title song "Sound of Music".

Mr. Radakovich, portraying an Italian Fonz, defends his bikeriding the school halls after he was summoned to the Principal's office.

"Thay, Breaker, Breaker! This is little C.B. Savage..." chirped the suddenly effeminate Mr. Yates when "The C.B. Song" hammed up.

Although they developed a true friendship, Peter Van Daan and Anne Frank began their long days in hiding barely tolerating each other.

Sandy Sanborn, Jenny Collins, and Mary Grom huddle together to sing during a thunderstorm.

Springtime blossoms into a musical celebration

This year and last, the school musicals were directed by Ms. Brophy. "Carnival" was presented April 8, 9, 10, and 11, 1976. These four performances accommodated the dual casting of Dave Stickels with Cindy Reynolds and Lee Murkey with Vickey King in lead roles. The cast was also asked to perform for the American Association of Retired People. This year the drama and music departments presented "The Sound of Music" March 31, April 1 and 2. Students from elementary schools played the parts of the three youngest members of the Van Trapp family.

In the song "How Do You Solve a Problem Like Maria", Mother Superior, played by Vicky King asks for advice in dealing with the carefree novice, Sister Maria.

Practices for "Sound of Music", directed by Pat Brophy were held at both East and West High Schools this year. Each practice ran for three or more hours daily for approximately six weeks before the show was presented.

Maria, played by Julie Holmstrom, looks to the hills for "Sound of Music" in the spring musical.

How's her love life? Elsa (Diane Schultz) complains to Max (John Wallace) and he replies—all in a song entitled "How Can Love Survive?"

In the 1920's a "good" girl did not wear silk underthings, however, Anne decided it was time to change and informed her father she was going to be the "cat's meow!"

Set crew chief Linda Borzick had quite a job organizing the construction of a three-platform set for "Anne Frank."

In "The Diary of Anne Frank" Mr. and Mrs. Frank proposed a toast to welcome their new guest Mr. Dussel. All three were forced into hiding for two years during World War II.

Perfect timing in operating the sound panel was required of Bob Ruzga to coordinate the sound effects with the action on stage.

The lights dim on the action as Frank Gilbreth, Neil Flynn, and his sister Ernestine, Keely Reeves, recall their childhood days when things came "Cheaper By The Dozen."

The play's the thing

For her first directing task of the '76-77 season, Barb Hummel chose "Cheaper by the Dozen," a 1920's comedy, dealing with a sophisticated couple and their twelve unsophisticated children.

During production week, the cast treated the seventh grade classes at Jack Benny Junior High School to an afternoon performance. The seventh graders had been studying the story in class.

Hummel chose a more serious drama for the winter production. "The Diary of Anne Frank" featured Keely Reeves as the troubled young girl struggling to understand the adult world.

Since no other entry was prepared, "Diary" was cut down to forty minutes and stood as East's entry in the 1977 IHSA Drama Festival.

The sets for both shows were constructed by Mr. Robert Oglesby, along with the students who signed up for the set crew.

One aspect of theater work is the art of applying makeup. Although the crew is there to assist, experienced actors save time by applying their own.

Wanting to be like the other girls, Anne Gilbreth (Jean Wolf) pleads with her obstinate father for permission to wear the latest craze, teddies, and silk stockings.

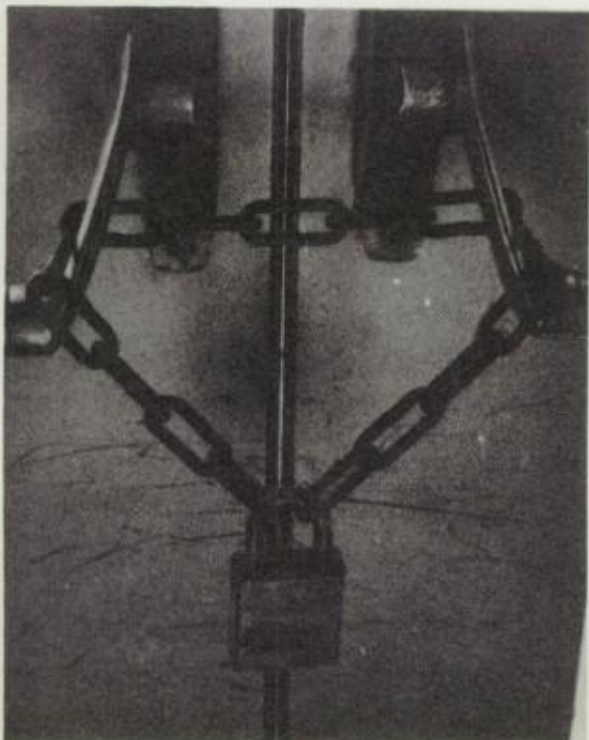

Art students recreated their favorite super-heroes on the walls of room 103. Batman, Mickey Mouse Superman, and the Lone Ranger were among those featured.

The opening of Marriott's Great America Theme Park in Gurnee created over two thousand job openings for area young people during the summer months. Junior Julie Holmstrom was chosen to appear in Great America's newest show, "Holiday." She was one of forty selected from over a thousand who auditioned.

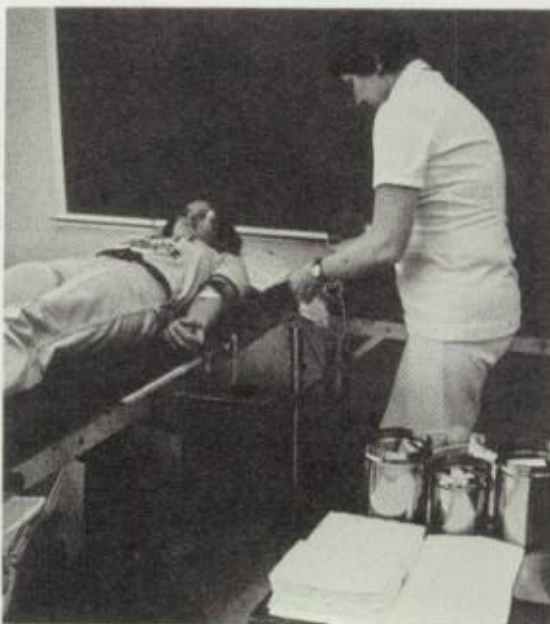

In December, the National Honor Society inducted sixty-one new members, the greatest number ever initiated at one ceremony.

At 3:45 p.m. only three school exits were available to students and teachers. The remaining doors were chained in an attempt to prevent vandalism and theft. Although the system was designed with good intentions, it was a fire hazard, as well as an inconvenience.

Highlights and lowlights

The Student "W" World conducted a poll on major elections of the year, mayoral, as well as presidential. In the first mock election, the students' decision didn't agree with the nation's as they chose Ford over Carter 454-411. The mock mayoral election had Bill Morris prevailing over Bob Sabonjian 213-208.

One of this year's senior class meeting gave Jenny Eifert an opportunity to speak to her fellow classmates about sponsoring a blood drive within the school. To be able to give blood, a student had to be at least seventeen years old, weigh 110 pounds, and be in good health. A representative from the North Suburban Blood Center showed the class a film and explained to them exactly how the drive would work. Sixty-five pints of blood were donated by students and teachers on the December 10 drive.

Karen Ekstrand, Bob Smart, and Jeannine Holdiman were among the twenty state finalists selected for the Earthwatch Scholarship. This program, available to those ages 16-21, gave five hundred students an opportunity to do fieldwork in various scientific areas, such as anthropology, geology, and archaeology. About thirty percent of the participating students are assigned to overseas projects for the 2-3 week summer term.

Sophomore Genelle Travers represented WEHS at the Hugh O'Brien convention in Chicago. She was awarded a pin, a certificate, and an original Hugh O'Brien T-Shirt.

The Domestic Exchange Club planned an exchange with Colorado Springs, Colorado. As a fundraiser they sponsored a volleyball exhibition. The guests of honor were the Chicago Rebels, a pro women's team on which East faculty member, Ms. Starck, plays. Opponents included women and men park district teams and East male faculty. Even though the fundraiser was a success, the Domestic Exchange Club cancelled their plans and didn't go.

The National Honor Society held a twenty-four hour ping pong, badminton, and rocking chair marathon. Sponsors of NHS members pledged over seven hundred dollars. The proceeds were used to donate equipment to Victory Memorial and Saint Therese Hospitals.

Throughout the year, Mr. Aken and the Junior Craftsmen have printed 4800 tickets and programs for the school plays and dances, all the graph paper for the math department, 128,000 Homeward Bound issues, 39,000 "W" Worlds, and 50,000 hall passes.

Senior Joy Mazlo was named Cadet Lieutenant Colonel at the May Awards Night. She was the first girl at East to receive that honor, and also the first girl to become Battalion Commander. In the past, girls were elected by fellow students to the post of Honorary Lieutenant Colonel at the Military Ball. Joy's title however, was earned by her ROTC leadership and scholastic ability.

Jae Li Pak entered an experiment he had designed to determine the speed of electricity in the National Westinghouse Science Contest. Jae put in time after school and on weekends in Mr. Henrickson's Physics room working on the project. The final day of the contest, Mr. Odorizzi let him in the school about 7:00 a.m. and he didn't leave until 11:00 that night. All of Jae's hard work was rewarded, however, when he placed among the top three hundred national finalists.

Mickey Woolf and Mike Clark attended the Washington Congressional Seminar the week following Spring Break. This opportunity was brought to their attention by social studies department head, Mr. Hemeyer. Mickey and Mike asked community organizations to donate funds for plane tickets and lodging at Mary Mount College. The political seminars focused on how the United States government, especially the Congress, works.

Maury Fertig received first place in the B'nai B'rith Youth Organization film contest for his production of "A Day at School." The movie starred students and faculty members of East and was filmed on location. After his finish, Maury went on to enter his film in the NBC "Saturday Night Live" film contest.

Pam Phipps won the Betty Crocker Homemaker Award for her high score on a test that involved general information needed in managing a household.

On a cold day this winter, a fire alarm during the 5-5 lunch period caused much confusion. Students were given conflicting instructions: first to stay seated, next to stand outside, and finally to come inside, but remain on the first floor. The possibility of a fire had to be investigated before students were allowed back to their classes. Fireman discovered, however, that water dripping into the attic heat sensor had caused a short circuit. The entire incident amounted to twenty minutes of freezing outdoors and at least a half an hour of waiting in uncertainty.

After singing in a contest at her church, Vickey King was asked to perform five songs with piano accompaniment on TV, Channel 38. She also was cast in the role of the Mother Superior in the musical, "Sound of Music."

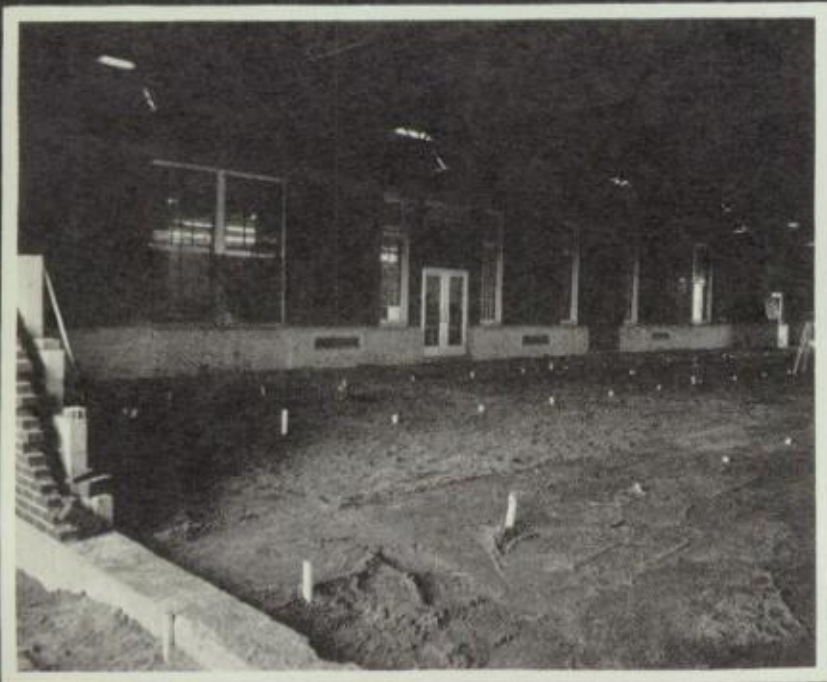

This year Mr. Radakovich and twenty-five interested students hoped to travel to Germany for Easter vacation. Unfortunately, plans were made too late to make arrangements.

Lee Murkey and Mickey Woolf competed in the state speech tournaments. Lee placed third in Prose, and Mickey placed seventh in Humorous Interpretation.

Construction began when the District 60 School Board signed a contract with the lowest bidder.

Cafeteria remodeling was a topic of conversation for years. This year students saw the addition materialize.

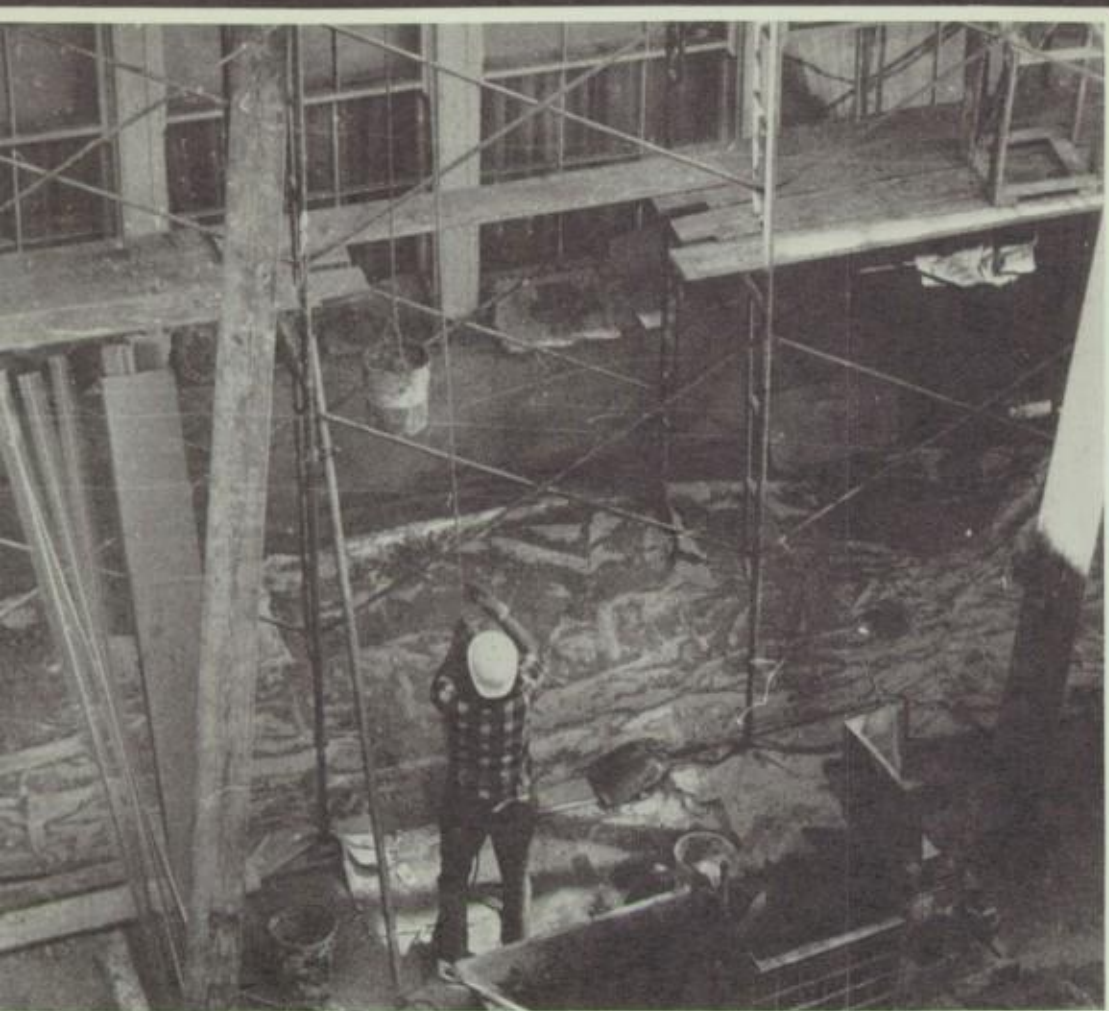

The newly constructed roof blocked the sunlight from the cafeteria and cast a shadow on the lunch room atmosphere.

Although one purpose of the school split was to provide more space in both schools, there was need for expansion in the boys' locker room.

The network of scaffolding erected for construction purposes was also put to use as a pulley system for lowering supplies and buckets of cement.

Improvements At East

Renovations around this year changed the daily routine of students and teachers. The retiling of stairs in both the main building and south building detoured the usual traffic between classes to different routes. Students and teachers moved from their rooms for a day when new windows were put in all around the school. Victory Street doors were shut off during the building of a new cafeteria designed to accommodate all of the students at East. Over Christmas vacation, the central administration moved to the Lincoln Center on Sheridan, vacating the general offices of South Building. Proposals to fill this space were submitted by the Home Economics, Business, Music, and Drama departments. Among the last of the projects begun this year was the rebuilding of the boys locker rooms, in both the main and south buildings.

Many classes on the east side of school were interrupted by the noise of sawing and hammering throughout the day.

The addition was designed to appear as a continuation of the old wall.

An addition to the cafeteria was built to accommodate East students.

Student administrators

The majority of activities which relate to school problems or to the social aspect of school life are classified under Student Council. "There are no qualifications to be a member," said Cindy Trombino, "Student Council is exactly what the name implies, 'the students Council'."

Political board, under the chairmanship of Debbie Warner, concentrated on school improvements. A committee was assigned to work on student privileges and open lunch. Another major project was the daily exchange to different high schools in the area. "It was not only fun," commented one exchange student to New Trier East High School, "but it was an interesting experience to compare our school to theirs. We were able to pick up some ideas through the way they ran their council." A few students also participated on the Community Advisory Council to the school board.

Events such as the Homecoming, Holiday and Turn-about dances, were handled completely by the members of the Social Board. Gym Jams allowed students to get together, relax and even meet someone new. The Social board also produced this years' student talent show, "A Star is Born."

Members of Student Council presented opposing viewpoints on the controversial subject of student privileges.

Academics as well

The National Honor Society this year worked to explain their purpose with a new image. NHS members noted that many students were proud to be honored for their athletic ability, but ashamed to be singled out for scholarship, leadership, service, and character. These are the four requirements for membership in the NHS and the four ideals members wish to spread through their activities. These activities included two initiations, collections for CARE and UNICEF, field trips, a Homecoming float that won second place, and a popular Rec Night booth. By making a new image with these activities, NHS hoped to encourage all students to make these ideals their goal.

At the conclusion of their initiation ceremony, Debbie Warner led the sixty-one new members in the NHS pledge.

Students gain experience for the future

The Future Nurses Club was open to any girl who was interested in pursuing one of the many health fields. Most of the members worked on a voluntary basis in the Health Center, learning to help out in situations ranging from simple headaches to broken bones.

To raise money for scholarships, parties, and other club activities, the girls sold candy bars. They also participated in the Homecoming Parade and collected money for Muscular Dystrophy.

By touring Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago, the club members gained some insight into the wide variety of medical jobs available. "One of our main goals is to create an interest in health careers," commented Mrs. Kristensen. "We had one girl who wanted to become an airline stewardess, and ended up as an X-ray technician!"

Hors d'oeuvres, anyone?

Two years ago, Home Economics teachers Ms. Sheffield and Mrs. Warner first established Home Economics Club. HEC activities included serving cookies at the WEHS Honors Night, hors d'oeuvres for the teachers' retirement dinner, and puffed rice balls at the childrens wards of Victory Memorial and St. Therese hospitals. HEC members also served on the program and invitation committees for the Home Economics Fashion Show in December, called the "Trim-a-Tree Fashion Show."

Advocates of education

Future Teacher member, Christy Clauss, said of this club, "We had more ideas than we had members to carry them out." Some of the ideas they did carry out were a "Football School" Homecoming float, bake sales at Rec Night and basketball games, visits to Rockford College and National College, new teacher evaluation forms, and observations of methods of WEHS teachers. Through these Future Teacher activities, members hoped to try to prepare themselves for careers in the educational field.

Succeeding in business

"We had lots of enthusiastic members who wanted to get things done," Carol Sikich said of Future Business Leaders of America. The enthusiasm of FBLA continued throughout the year, beginning with a first place Homecoming float. The WEHS club competed with other FBLA chapters in the Illinois State Conference in the clerical areas. The club also hosted the Northern Area Conference consisting of workshops in parliamentary procedure and public speaking.

Since organization was one of the goals of FBLA, officers wrote the agenda on the board at their meetings.

prior to obtaining her job, Cindy Ferguson spent many hours in class learning to type various business forms.

File it under "O"

"Supervised by Mr. Printy, the Office Occupations students worked to master correct telephone answering, filing, and typing. Along with meeting first period daily, each girl was required to hold a related job. For example, Cindy Ferguson worked at National Budget Council, while Connie Kapsala was employed at Chicago Title Insurance. The students also took part in the Area Conference at Illinois Beach State Lodge, competing in records managing, and other clerical areas.

Office Occupations took orders for red and white carnations to be delivered on Valentine's Day.

Distributive Education gave interested students the chance to earn high school credit while holding part time jobs. Karen Wenzel found working as a station attendant one way to aquire credit.

Earning and learning

Distributive Ed. is a group of juniors and seniors interested in the fields of marketing and retailing. Senior members are required to hold a part-time job, with their employers grading them according to their performance.

The club's activities this year included an anti-shoplifting program in the Waukegan Junior High schools and field trips to shopping areas such as Woodfield, Watertown Place, and Marshall Fields' State Street store.

D. E. raised money by taking inventories of the toy department of Belscot, the entire Zayre store and by holding a candy sale. The money was used to finance an employer-employee banquet at the end of the year.

At the state Distributive Education contest, Wes Trombino took first in general merchandising.

ROTC instructors

ROTC students with the rank of Sergeant First Class and above made up the Crossed Sabres. Members of this club met Friday mornings to plan activities for the battalion. One project was planning the 51st Annual Military Ball which was combined with West High School. The sight of the dance was changed to the American Legion Club instead of the traditional main gym. Their responsibilities included organizing the sales of Peanut Nugget Candy and Texas oranges and grapefruit. The fruit sale was not as successful as in previous years because two or three hundred cases of fruit was stolen from the delivery truck while on route to Waukegan. An annual picnic for all ROTC members was held in May.

Marching patterns

Outfitted in their new black and white uniforms, the Waukegan East Drill Team served as the color guard at sports events and other school gatherings. Practices were held once a week to work out new routines and perfect the precision footwork and weapon drills. In addition to marching in local parades, the team performed at the junior high schools in hopes of recruiting future members.

Hot Off The Presses

The Junior Craftsmen are seven Vocational printing students who handle the school's printing assignments. Tuesday nights were spent printing the school newspapers for both East and West High Schools. Extra work sessions were held to print playbills, the college night bulletin, invitations to prom, and other school related literature. To raise money, the club contributed a design-your-own-button booth at Rec Nite.

Andre Länder, Andre Sitten

The German Club was open to anyone interested in the German way of life and Language. The group took a trip to the Milwaukee Folk Fair in November which provided a perfect opportunity for the members to see and experience the German culture. They also held a fund raising dance on January fourteenth after a basketball game. A trip to Germany during spring break was planned.

C'est la vie

French Club, sponsored by Mr. Sheridan, learned more about French culture by attending a Folk Fair in Milwaukee. Over forty ethnic groups featuring folk dances from their countries were presented in a dance show at the end of the day. To raise money for the fair and future field trips, members participated in a candy sale.

Decorated in the form of a sidewalk cafe, the Creperie titled the club's Rec Nite booth. Members, dressed as chefs, made and sold fruit-filled crepes.

Vini, vidi, vici

A field trip to the Planetarium in Chicago was arranged by the Junior Classical League sponsor Miss Dunn to celebrate Latin Day, May 6. Latin Club and Future Nurses Club members worked together through the Junior Womens' League and made Easter baskets for needy families. At the end of the year, the annual potluck dinner was held in the Annex.

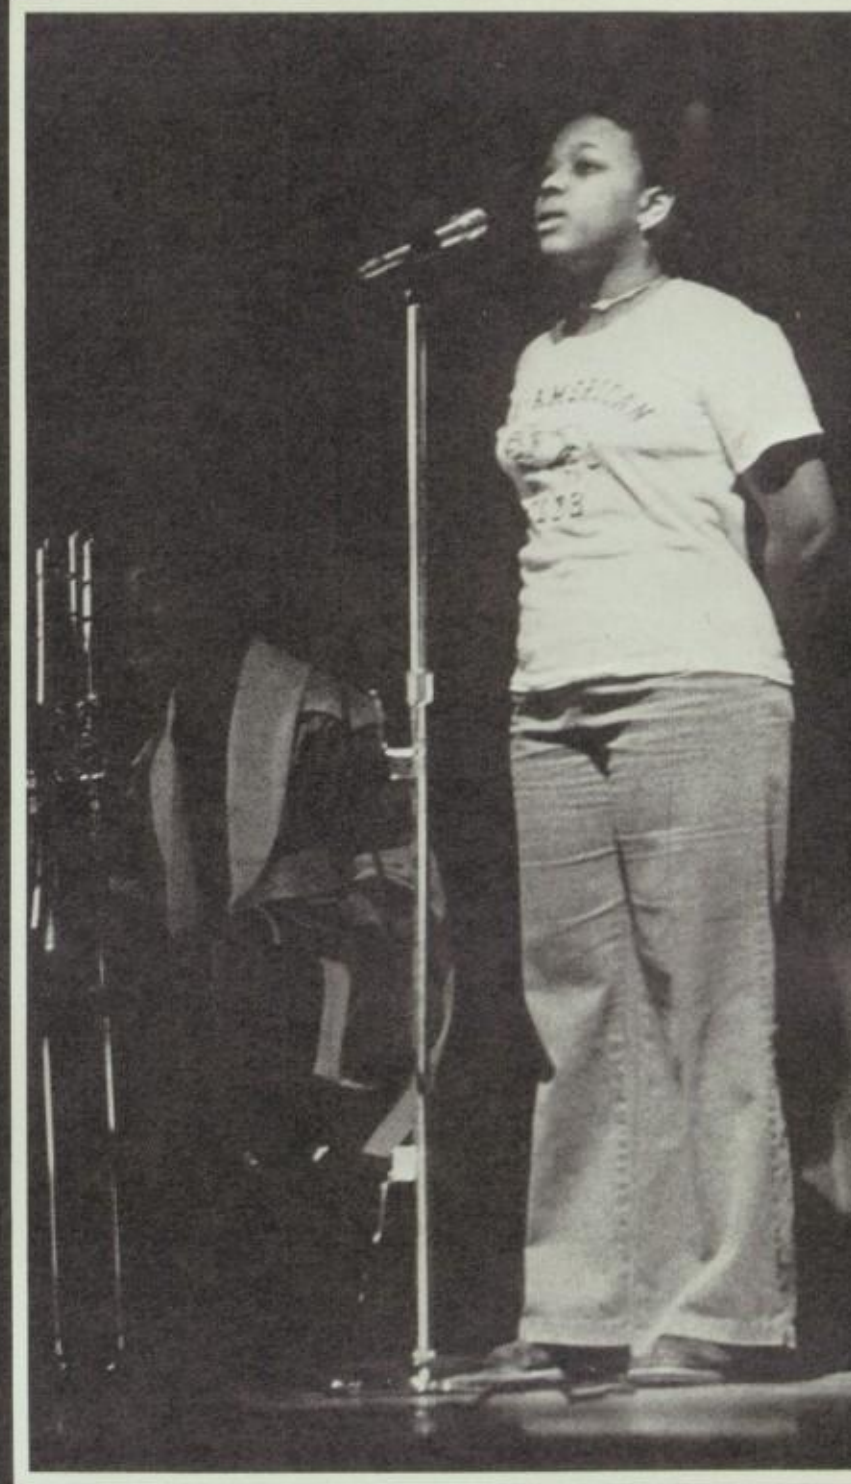

The "Black Excellence" program honored Paul Lawrence Dunbar, a famous black poet, by reciting "The Wakening" and "Love's Draft," two of his selections.

Black pride-school pride

Every Wednesday after school, members of Afro American Club met with Mr. Kirkwood in room 202. At each meeting some time was spent planning the upcoming activities while the remainder was open for discussion of individual student problems or anything on the minds of those present. Elaine Tanner, a second year member, said Mr. Kirkwood was "someone I could relate to and have a fun time with." This year the planning time produced a Rec Night Record Hop and Cake Walk and such get-togethers as a skating party. Other major projects included a trip to The Wiz, a fashion show for Black History Week, and the annual banquet to wind up the year.

Un pequito de espanol

Spanish Club provided an opportunity for students to become acquainted with the Spanish language and culture. One of the year's first activities was to sponsor a reception welcoming La Tuna. Proceeds from candy sales and a pie-throwing booth at Rec Night were used to plan a Disco Dance and a trip to a Spanish restaurant. Through the generosity of the members, money was sent each month to help sponsor a child in Guatemala.

"There's been increasing interest in the club this year," said Eileen Schmid. "If more students would participate, we could accomplish even better things."

Un parte de usted

"The purpose of the club was to develop leadership and to fulfill cultural goals for Latinos," explained Mr. Padilla. He also implied that the club was very interested in acquainting everyone with the Latino aspect of life.

This past year, the club sponsored a student exchange program with Roberto Clemente High School, a spring dance, and a volleyball tournament.

For athletes only

"There should be more participation in W Club; five years ago it was very popular," stated Tom Whipple. However, W Club has grown to fifty-eight members this year, consisting of thirty-two girls and twenty-six guys. To be eligible for admittance, one must have either a major W or two minor W's. For the two dollar entrance fee, the club members received a W Club patch and after one semester, a free sports pass. Meetings were held every other Wednesday night. After business was taken care of, members had the opportunity to play basketball and volleyball for the next hour and a half.

W Club participated in many activities this year, including running the concessions at basketball and football games, sponsoring the spring sports banquet, and having a booth at Rec Nite. During the Homecoming week, they organized the Pep-Rally and participated in the Harvest Moon Parade. The annual ski trip, which was held at Devil's Head Ski Resort on February 12th and 13th, was their most popular activity. "It's fun and worthwhile," commented Martha Riss. "It's an honor to be in W Club."

As the butterflies begin to flutter in his stomach, Emcee Tom Whipple does some last minute planning with Mr. Miller at the Homecoming pep rally.

Working to raise money for W Club, members staffed the football and basketball concession stands, selling popcorn, candy, and pop to the fans.

A break in the game was mandatory when the referees were called in to assist two opponents in untangling their skates.

Only the name's the same

This year the hockey club underwent many changes. Unlike last year, the membership was open to all high school levels. The club's new location was the Waukegan Twin Skates arena where the team played a 15 game schedule in the Chicago Metropolitan League's far north division. With the help of a $1500 grant from the Waukegan township board, the team was able to buy new uniforms and finance practice time and games.

Over Christmas vacation, the team participated in the first Waukegan Township Hockey Tournament. After losing the first round in a heartbreaking 5-4 overtime loss, East fought back against West High and Grayslake to place second in the Township Tournament.

Soccer enthusiasts

Soccer team players, cheerleaders and fans comprised the membership of Kickers Club. Fund raisers, such as "Kick a Soccer Goal" at Rec Night, were held. The money was used to sponsor an annual field trip to a Cubs game. The club also put money towards new soccer equipment and paying the fan's entrance fee to the District Soccer game. "Since soccer is a sport that is on the rise," commented Mr. Radakovich, "the students in Kickers Club are very enthusiastic about building more school spirit for the exciting game."

Chalking up points

"It takes skill to be a wrestling scorekeeper," explained Lawrie TenPas. "You have to have complete concentration on the match in progress." The scorekeepers flashed scores to the spectators and recorded them in the coaches' book. The girls accompanied the wrestlers to home and away meets including the day long Bay Memorial and Lake County invitationals. Karen Alfino concluded "It's a worthwhile activity because you're learning something while meeting new people."

Let's get rowdie

"It would have been nice having the members attend meetings as well as the games," Mr. Devore, Home Rooting Dynamos sponsor said. After entering "HRD presents Harvest Movies" in the Homecoming parade, the club directed its efforts toward raising school spirit. "We worked on getting the kids to attend the games, which was difficult, especially with our losing streak," explained Cathy Collins, president. Rec Night brought out the more social aspect of HRD. "Having the Kissing Booth didn't make a lot of money for us, but it was fun and very different," Cathy added.

Enthusiasm, a loud voice, and constant support for the team were requirements met by Lori Woolf as an HRD member.

A pattern of voices

Students auditioned during the Spring for entrance into the A Cappella Choir. Practicing during their fourth period class, the choir, improved their scales ability, sight reading, and rehearsed for school assemblies and seasonal concerts. The choir's extra-curricular performances included the Rotary Club, the Viewpoint program on WKRS, and a Christmas show at Clearview Grade School, where Junior Dan Jones portrayed Santa Claus for the attentive K-6ers.

Musically inclined

A full schedule of events was planned for the Orchestra this year. They put on a program at the Waukegan Public Library and held their annual concert at the West Auditorium. In addition, they played at St. Dismas Church where they were asked back for an encore performance. Besides these extra curricular activities, they played at assemblies. After their final school engagement at Graduation, the Orchestra took part in a musical festival in Ottawa, Canada.

Band of the future

Most Varsity Band activities in 1977 were aimed at goals for the next few years. To realize one goal, marching at a Bears game, the band sharpened their marching skills during our football season and added a performance at Marriott's Great America to their credentials. Grapefruit and orange sales will fund future trips. Basketball games, music contests, and concerts improve the band's sound and strengthen their reputation. John Wallace was optimistic: "we have a good future if we keep on working as hard as we did this year."

The Bulldog Band executes a pivot turn onto Washington Street enroute to Weiss Field to open Homecoming's full days of activities.

The contemporary sound

Rock Pop Choir is the contemporary sound of East. Their modern music was unique to the school's musical program. The group was featured in the Christmas Acappella and Mixed Choir. They also sang in the Spring Concert at the Little Theater. The choir's selections included "He Ain't Heavy, He's my Brother" and a Beatles' Medley, prepared during their third period class. "The sole purpose of the choir," said Mr. Albers, "is to develop new singing ability."

Rhythm and blues

"Jazz Band is really different from anything I've ever been in before," commented Rick Ekstrand, the only freshman member. "The music isn't all written down for you; you have to improvise."

In February, the band competed in the Oak Lawn Jazz Festival against other area jazz groups. The members worked this year to develop their skills in performing as soloists, as well as playing in an ensemble. In addition to improving their style, the band tried to encourage student appreciation of jazz.

hathon White, senior member of the Afro-American choir, utilizes his vocal abilities in singing "Chanson du Toreador" from the opera Carmen.

"I really enjoy teaching this class," said Miss Long, instructor of the Afro-American Choir, "because the kids are genuinely interested in what they are doing."

This year's choir consisted of over 50 students, who each day learned and practiced different songs. "The only problem," Miss Long continued, "is that we don't have enough fellas."

The choir's members agreed that performing at the annual school assembly celebrating Black History Week was this year's main goal.

United in song

"Mixed Choir was good preparation for A Cappella or any musical advancement," member Lawrie TenPas said. Under the direction of Miss Long, the class met daily to prepare for the holiday assembly and the Spring Musical Festival. The choir improved their vocal abilities by performing such slow songs as "Scarborough Fair", "I'm Going to Ride the Chariot", a negro spiritual, and a medley from the musical, "Oliver."

Second band at East

Concert Band, the second band at WEHS meets second period. Incoming band members often play in Concert Band a year before being graduated into the Varsity Band. This year two students chose to play in the Concert Band because of schedule conflicts with first period when Varsity Band meets. Concert Band member Chris Marushin commented, "I think we need more discipline." However, all members of this second band, students have a chance to learn to discipline themselves before they must conform to the stricter atmosphere of first period. This group combines with the Varsity Band for football and basketball games, fruit sales and trips, however, they perform on their own for state music contests and the spring band concert.

Dedicated To Music

"Tri-M is an organization furthering music within the school and community," explained Jason Wadleigh. Every other Wednesday before school was the meeting time chosen for Modern Music Masters. Since music contains many facets, the club found many interesting items to discuss.

Activities included a public recital held in the spring for students who competed earlier in the year in district competition. They also attended the opera "La Centerola," more popularly known as "Cinderella," at the Lyric Opera House.

You Gotta have Art

"The purpose of the Art Club was to indulge in, and promote an interest in art itself," commented Jasna Radavonovic, a second-year member.

The club's main projects this year were selling hand-made sea shell jewelry at Rec night and painting a huge Mythological caterpillar on the rear wall of Mr. Misunas' art room.

Misunas said he started the club "for those who enjoy and want to do more in art than just come to class every day."

Dancing on water

This year's synchronized swimming club had to struggle for its existence. Unknown to the Dolphins, the school board had reduced the salary of Ms. Kamm, their sponsor, from six hundred to one hundred and fifty dollars. Since Ms. Kamm could not accept the job under these conditions, the club members got together to work on the problem. Finally, they decided to invite Mr. DellaValle, president of the school board, to a meeting at which they explained their wish to continue Dolphins as an organization. Their efforts got Ms. Kamm's salary reinstated. As Debbie Warner, the club president, said "We hope the show in May proved to everyone that we really care about Dolphins."

In preparation for the spring show, these Dolphin members spend practice time perfecting a basic water ballet skill, the star formation.

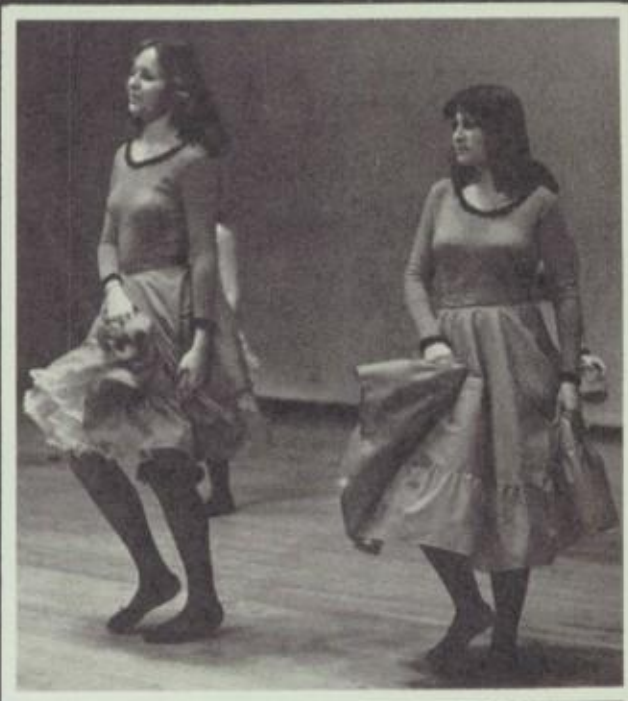

Dolphin practices were held each week to give members the chance to learn their routines, as well as improve their techniques. For added variation, Senior Dolphins Carol Sikich, Debbie Warner, Karen Pawlowski, and Robin Jeffries practice one of the many ways of entering the water.

In the spotlight

"That's Entertainment" titled the 1977 Orchesis Show. Preparations began months before with tryouts held in October. In November each girl turned in her ideas for dances and by the end of the year all were choreographed. Of the forty-five dances turned in, twenty-five survived the final cut. Costumes were designed to make each number unique.

The show had something for everyone by using all forms of dance; tap, jazz and ballet. The young children were excited in seeing their heroes Batman and Robin, while the adults were pleased with an old favorite "Singin' in the Rain."

At the end of the year a banquet was held where special awards, best choreographer, favorite dance, and biggest ham were given. In addition, each girl received a funny gift to remind her of the past Orchesis year.

Striking make-up and a strobe light revealed an interpretation of the future in "Odyssey."

Smiles covered the PomPons fears of getting plowed down by the truck behind them.

Kick up your heels

"We really had to work, but we still had a great time", stated Debbie Ogilvie, "Once in a while, we would even get Miss Abbott to do a cartwheel."

This year's Pom-Pons were divided into two squads, Varsity and J.V. Twelve girls made up the performing squad, providing lively entertainment at athletic events. The girls performed to various forms of music ranging from rock to classical. Each routine was choreographed by one of the Varsity members.

During the summer each girl was hard at work, selling sets of tumblers. The profits raised by this project were used to add white skirts and leotards to the wardrobe. Each girl also purchased a bright new pair of pom-pons.

After numerous practices the PomPon girls performed the perfected number at the basketball games.

Smooth talkers

"Although we didn't have as many members as in past years, the performers on the team this year were all of very high quality," commented Bill Devore, coach of this year's Speech Team.

Every other weekend this small troupe of performers traveled to different high schools to compete in Individual Events.

Unlike previous years, however, Waukegan did not host its own tournament, nor did they travel to Peoria for their annual overnight trip. "Our budget just couldn't afford it," Devore said.

At the end of the season, members applied for admittance into Masque and Gavel, a selective club for those who have excelled in speech activities.

Critic's choice

"Our club's ambition is to create an enthusiastic participation in the theatrical arts," stated Keely Reeves, president of Thespian Troupe 1278. The troupe helped staff the Jaycees Haunted House and sponsored "TP Your Friend" at Rec Night. The club held a winter and a spring initiation, where the "Dubious Awards" were announced. Prior to the spring initiation, the troupe sponsored Experimental Theater, allowing students to produce, direct, and even write plays.

An original publication

The Literary Club's publication, Parchment, provided an opportunity for students to display their creative talents. Original poetry, prose, photographs, and drawings composed Parchment. The Literary Club met on Wednesdays after school to judge, edit, and type the material. Efforts were combined to find ways of raising money. Letters had to be written and sent to prospective sponsors for their companies' advertisements in the magazine. Editor of Parchment, Bob Susman, encouraged writers and artists. "An artist will never continue to progress without an amount of encouragement and praise," he commented.

Two sides to every story

"Debate is an activity that opens doors to success in college and future careers," explained Debate Club sponsor Miss MacCready. The debaters met once a week to discuss their strategy and goals for the coming meets. Topics for debate are assigned annually by the Illinois High School Speech Association. This year's topic was penal reform. Team membership began with twelve, however by December, four remained to accept engagements at various schools. Miss MacCready stressed the fact that debating is a skill of practical value for anyone interested in pursuing a career in law, public speaking, or politics.

Voice of East

This year, W WORLD had a very experienced staff, having four people who were on the paper last year. Editor Andy Morrison tried to broaden the topics covered, but occasionally had a difficult time keeping the stories connected to a school-related area.

Special features this year included an "Ask the Man in the Hall" feature, and a series on the history of the school. Andy was pleased with the members of his staff, saying, "Some people on the staff went out of their way to do their jobs, and I think that the paper is better because of it."

With the deadline drawing near, Chris Woldt hurries to finish an article while Andy Morrison contributes helpful suggestions.

Missing Persons Report

NAME: 1977 Annual "W" Staff
ADDRESS: 1011 Washington Street
Waukegan, Illinois
Room 145

DESCRIPTION: On Wednesday March 30, 1977, twenty-six high school students were reported missing. Those in question (seven male, nineteen female varying in age from sixteen to eighteen) were last seen at the Waukegan International Airport. Flight personnel spotted the alleged party. They were described as being the typical tourists, ranging from 4'11" to 6'2". Hair color: mousey brown to strawberry blonde. Pilot Dave Whitmore admitted to sighting any Arab terrorist amongst the tennis racquets, golf clubs, violin cases, ski equipment, brief cases and Hawaiian moo-moos.

POSSIBLE MOTIVES: Rumor had it that the Annual W Staff (not knowing if the yearbook would be out or not at the time) planned to leave town to avoid possible threats to their lives.

A Time to be Heard and a Time to Listen

SCHOOL BOARD: T. Cavanaugh, W. Smart, J. Maurice, J. DellaValle, J. Rickard, W. Hadad, E. Davis.

The newly acquired Lincoln Center housed the Administration, School Board, and special classes.

CENTRAL ADMINISTRATION: R. Miller, C. Johnson, D. Torreson, J. Capra, H. Bowen, G. Lathem.

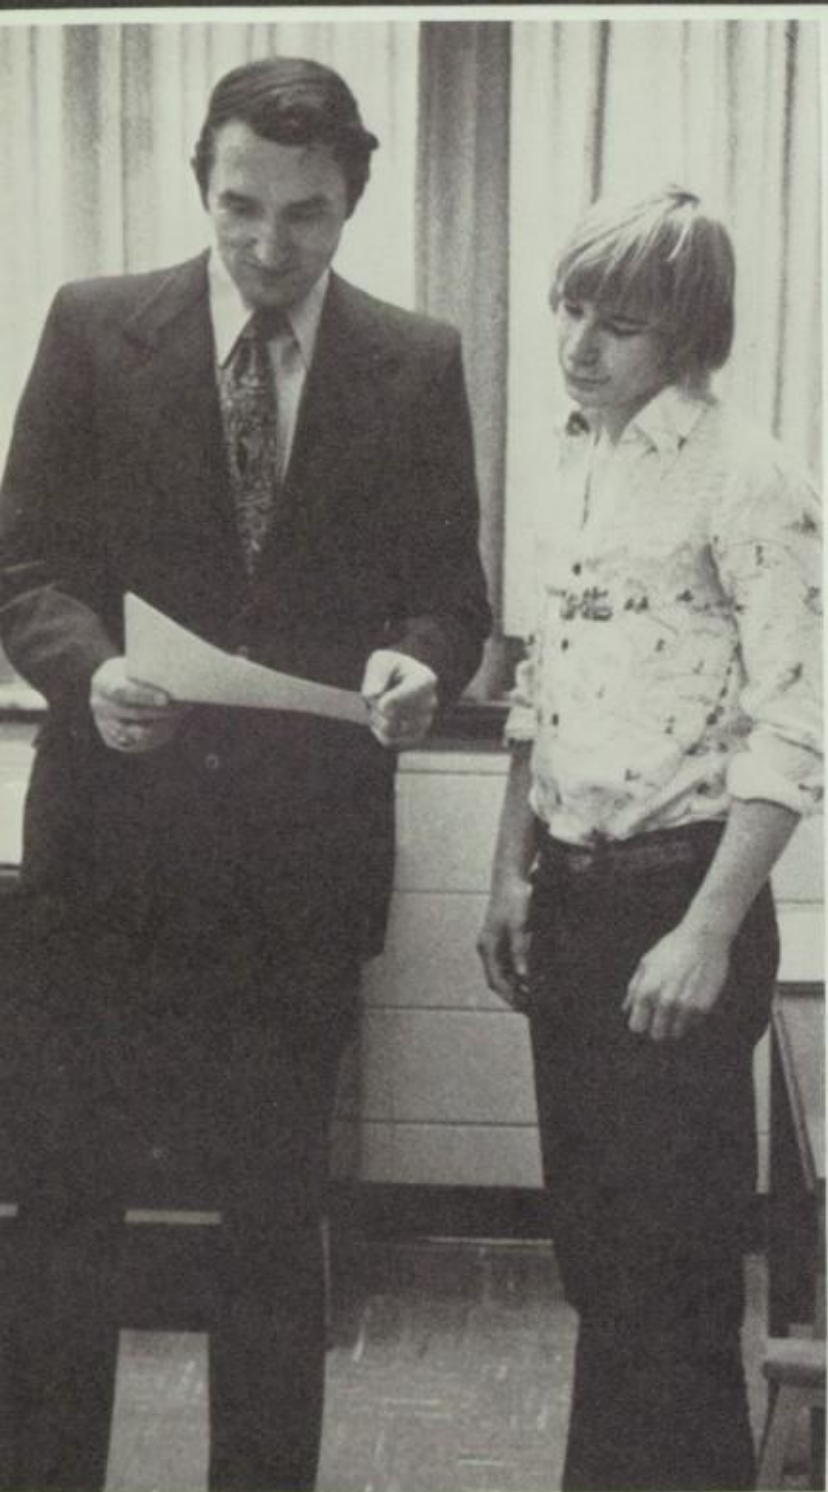

EAST HIGH SCHOOL ADMINISTRATION: (FRONT ROW) M. Perucca, Asst. Princ.; G. Alley, Asst. Princ.; (BACK ROW) D. Doss, Dean; J. Odorizzi, Princ.; P. Hamilton, Dean.

As a certified registrar, Mr. Odorizzi had the authority to register 18 year old students to vote.

Administration

"Through my experiences as a teacher, dean, and an assistant principal, I've witnessed many changes in the average student. Presently, I see a more independent and self-sufficient student emerging. This is resulting from a closer family unit, which is definitely an asset to the students' education."

Ms. Perucca

"A principal is the 'instructional leader.' I am here as a service to each student. My position involves every learning activity, be it in the classrooms, hallways, cafeteria, at sports events, during extra-curricular activities, etc. Our school's future depends on the outlook of the individual. We can only go as far as the individual will look."

Mr. Odorizzi

One of the counselors' main tasks was to meet with each student individually to schedule them for the '77-'78 school year.

Guidance

"I am a counselor because I am a humanitarian in philosophy, and I accept the challenge."
Mr. Sachs

"The process of counselling and teaching is a two-way street. I feel when I help students, I help myself."
Mr. Tabachnick

"The personnel here at East are great to work with and the students are interesting, challenging, and for the most part, respectful."
Mr. Berendsen

Filing, answering phones, and running summons are ways in which students lighten the load of the counselors' daily work.

Student Audio Visual assistants spent time after school collecting A.V. equipment that had been used during the day, and even helped teachers who had trouble threading projectors.

Special Faculty

"Athletics teaches kids to deal with daily life. Sure it's good to win, but it's very important to learn how to lose. Everyday life is winning and losing-you can't get away from it."

Mr. Miller

"People involved in high school work have to really like the teens. Not only must teachers and office workers enjoy the kids, they also should be patient."

Ms. Kristensen

After an unsuccessful attempt to find a certain book, Soo Kwak sought out the skillful aid of librarian, Mrs. Wade. [above]

Business Education

"No matter what profession you are contemplating, you must have a basic understanding of how our economy works."

Ms. Owen

"Business prepares students for the real world."

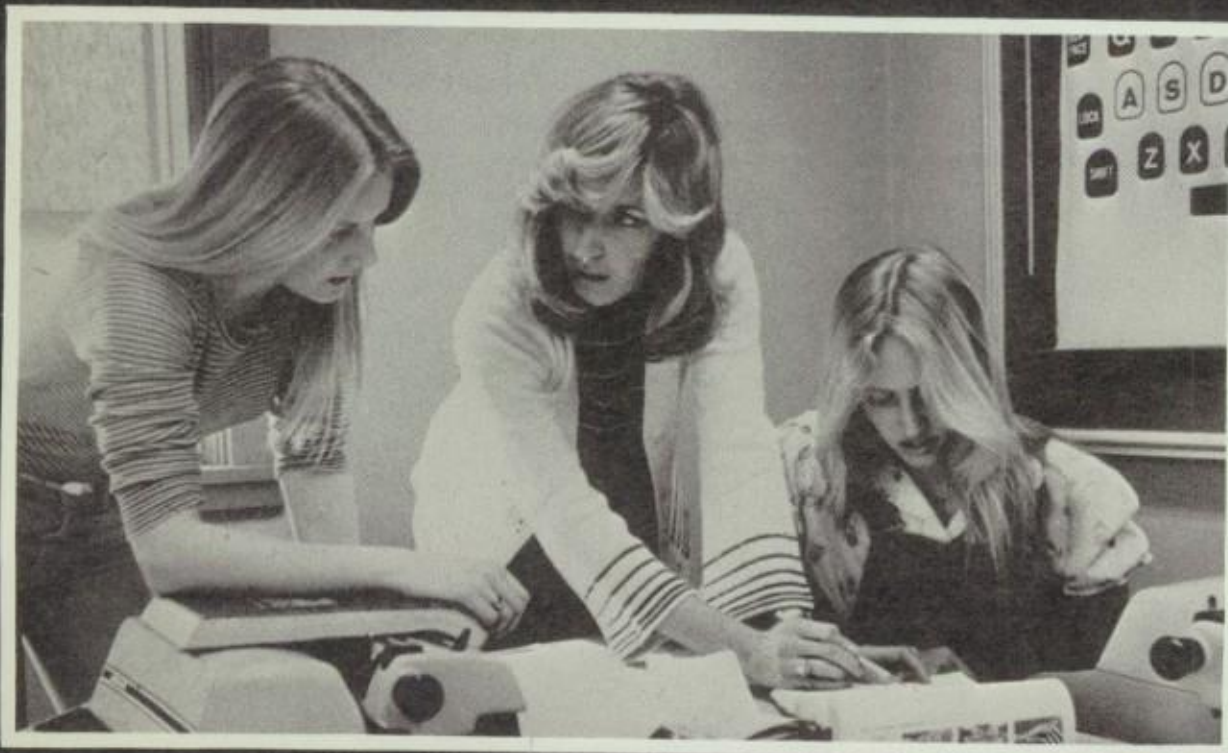

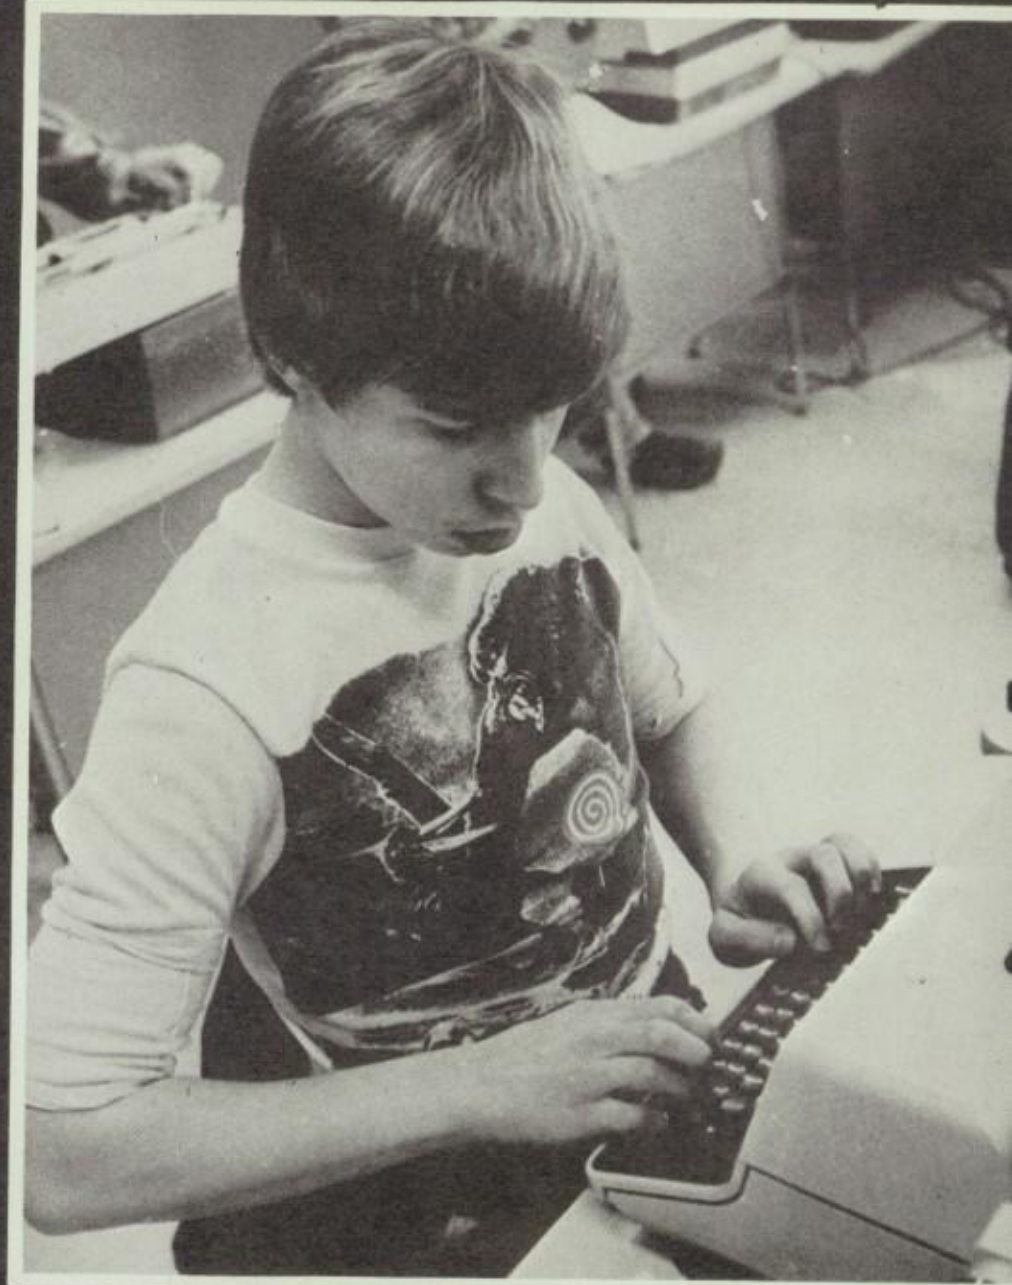

Mr. Merzlicker

"If you want to be assured of a job after graduation or extra money during college, get some practical business skills. When a student has skills to offer an employer, the benefit will come through a larger paycheck."

Ms. Herremans

"Business is the very basis of our society."

Ms. Rennick

Mrs. Owens assists Monica Hudson and Sherilyn Greenfield in mastering the proper style for business letters, a skill required to pass Typing II.

Improving her secretarial skills, Sue Wallin types from a dictaphone. This machine gives Sue practice in taking dictation.

Home Economics

"The nursery school is now part of the South Building. I'd like to encourage everyone to come see the new facilities so that they could become an active part of the program."

Ms. Sheffield

"For teachers, as well as students, the new nursery school is a total success. Even the children's parents were delighted with the carpeted rooms and larger space."

Ms. Wagner

"Some kids don't take Home Ec. classes because they don't understand what Home Ec. has to offer them."

Ms. Kleisner

Science

"I would like to see double periods for Advanced Chemistry. Since it is a college level course, it is impossible to cover everything I would like to cover in a year with only 55 minute periods."

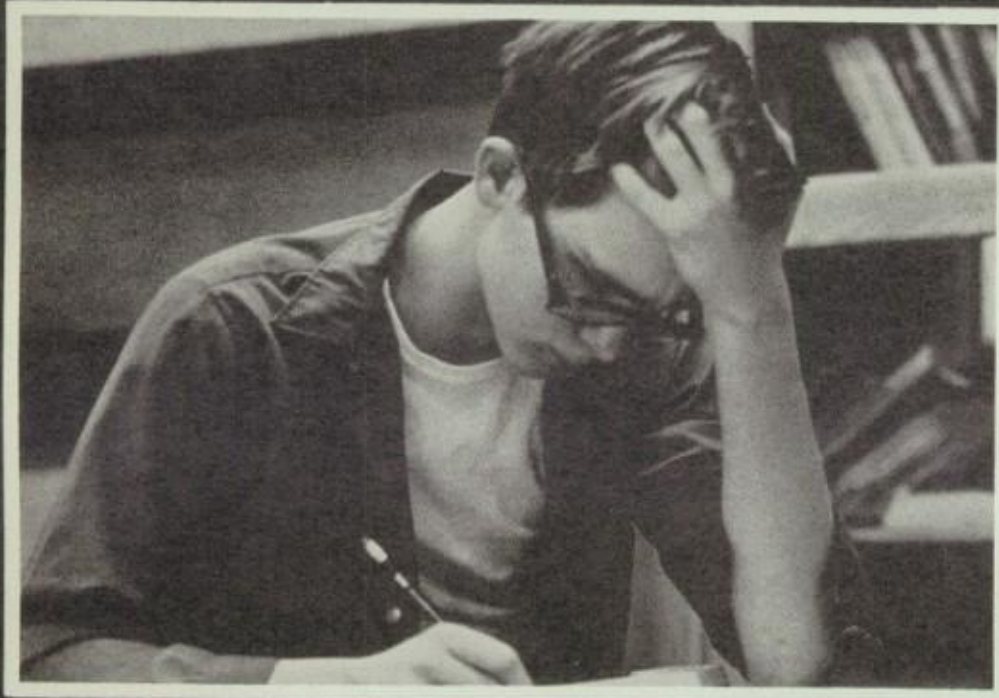

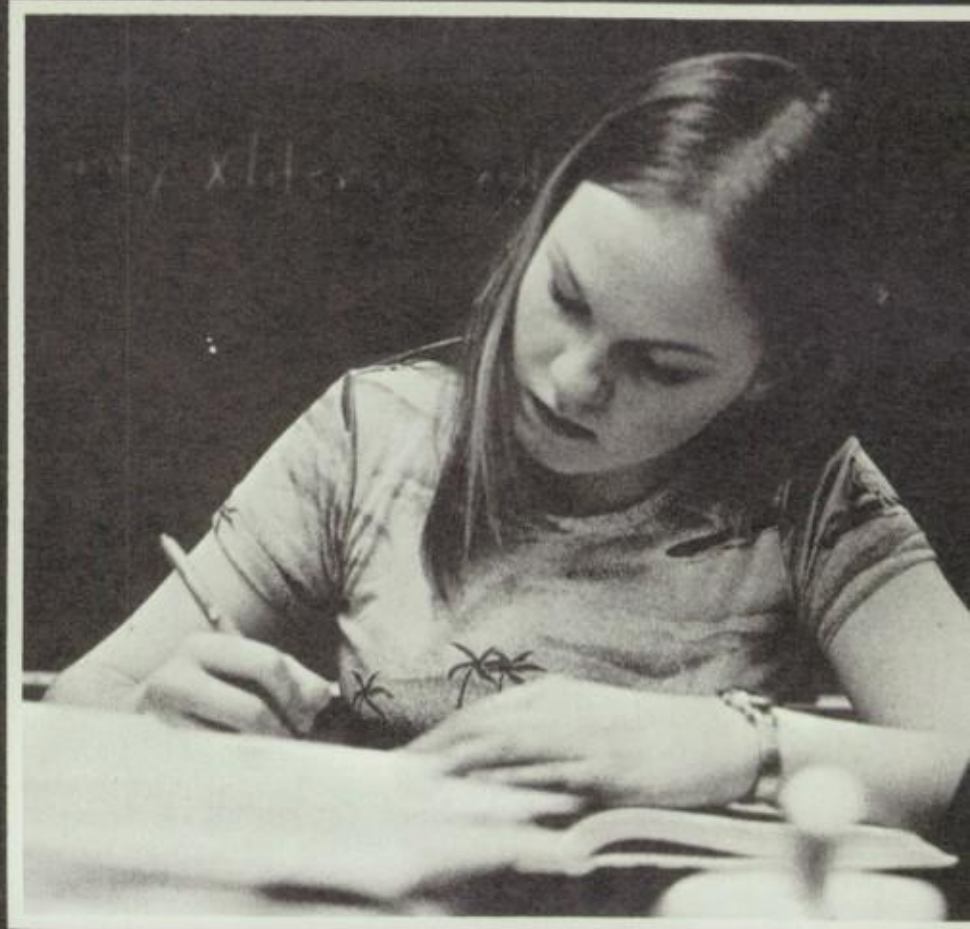

Mr. Williams

"The Physics course offered at East is designed to meet the needs of many students, regardless of their level."

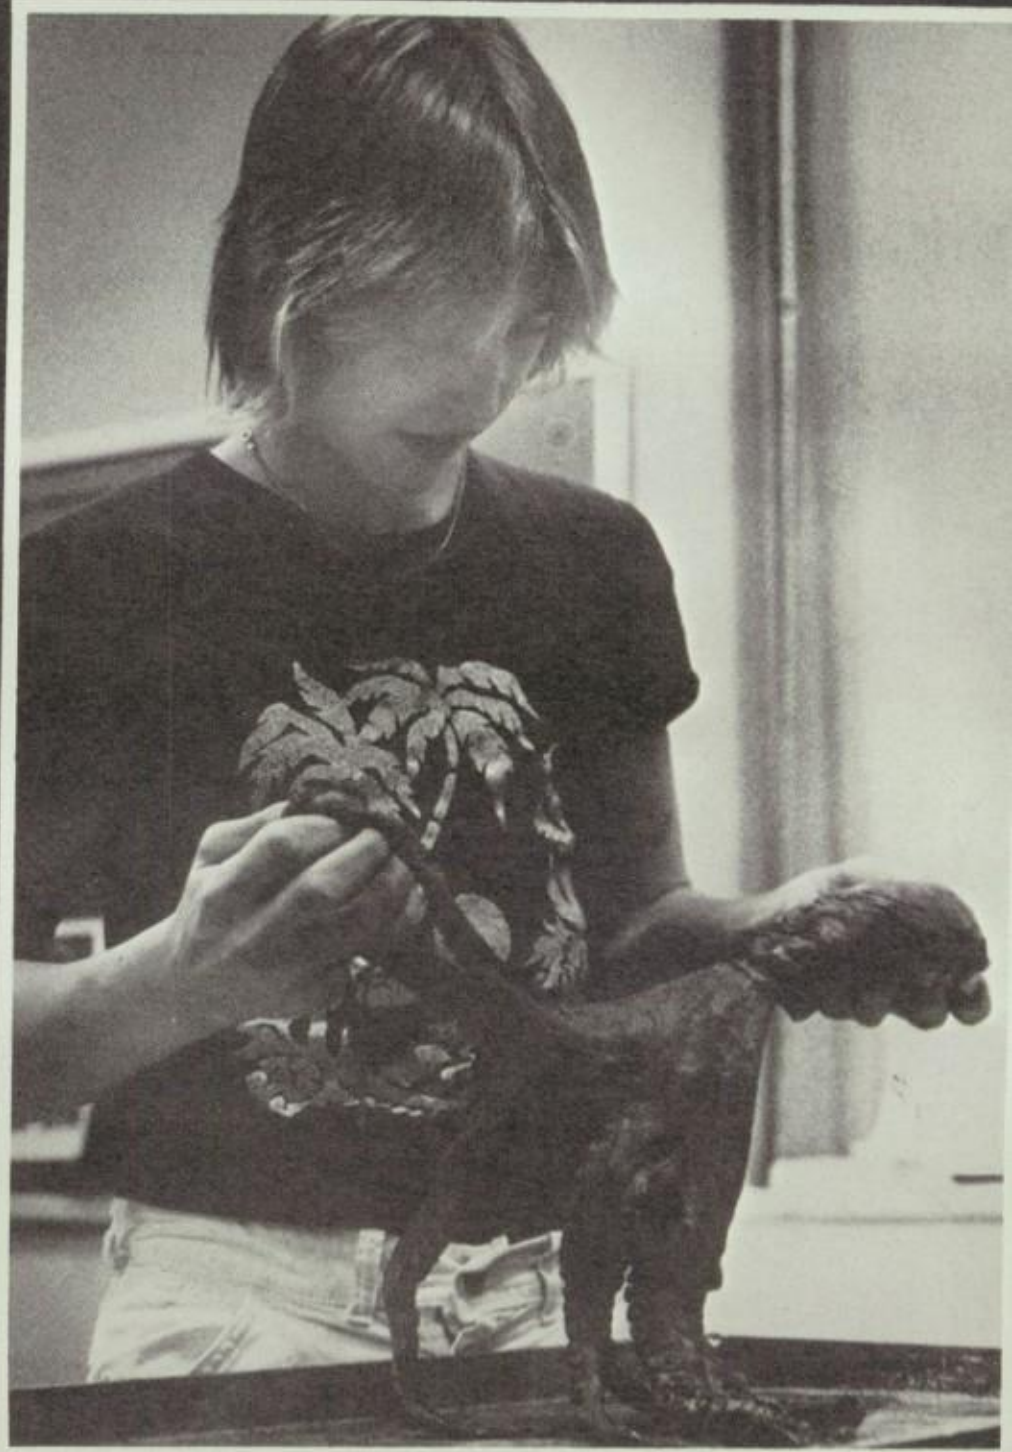

Mr. Henrickson

"The lab aspect of any science program gives a teacher more opportunity to work with each student individually."

Mr. Allen

Physics not only requires the hard concentration of Robert Morphis but also that of a pocket calculator.

First year Biology students are required to do numerous drawings for their notebooks. Here Jon Deckert carefully examines an octopus for a future drawing.

Studying the night before had advantages when Cedric Duty was called on in class.

Mathematics

"East has always tried to offer courses that the student can be successful in, regardless of ability."

Ms. Bryson

"Many people fail to realize that the study of mathematics is not just a process of doing problems. A student can learn how to read a technical subject, decipher what is being said, note important points, and apply them in a given set of exercises. One of the rewards of teaching is being able to watch a student who has developed these abilities."

Ms. Fischer

Math courses were conducted a variety of ways. Some teachers gave class lectures, some adapted an individualized study system, while others preferred a one-to-one basis.

Kathy Littner and Rick Keffer, members of the Social Problems class, staged a wedding to help them deal realistically with the problems of married life.

In an attempt to test the theory of operate conditioning, psychology students built mazes to be used in an experiment with mice.

Social Studies Dept. P. Kurtz, S. Jones, L. Hildebrand, D. Willis, W. Mueller, R. Lightfoot, J. Nessinger, R. Carpenter, W. Hemeyer.

Social Studies

"We need a Social Studies-English resource center. It would be operated by the two staffs and would be a place for the students to go when they needed to study."

Mr. Heymeyer

"I think that people should study more European history. Because Western ideas dominate the world, it is important for all of us to understand them."

Ms. Hildebrand

"Psychology has a large appeal because students have an idea of what the class is about. It helps them understand themselves and others."

Mr. Jones

Most students were never asked to play baseball without the ball or bat until they got to Drama I with Miss Hummel. Future actors and actresses learned to improvise a scene within a few minutes when called upon during class.

Communications

"The kids I'm working with are ambitious mainly because I teach college prep. classes. I think ten years ago, kids put more effort into their schoolwork. They did more reading and studying."

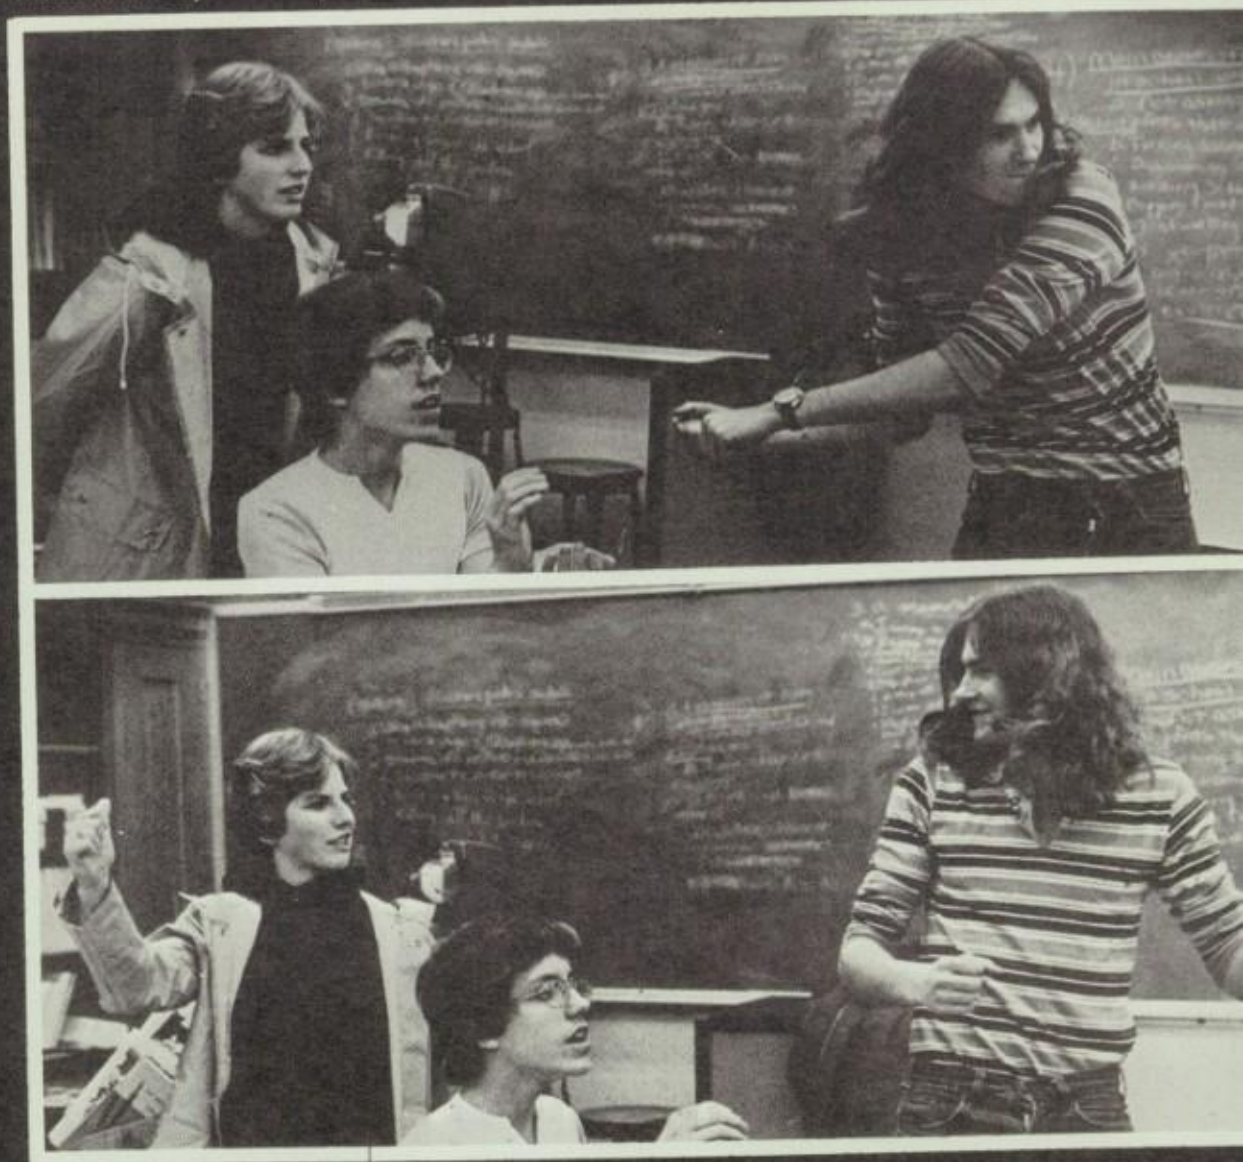

Ms. Cary

"I think we need more space to do things in small groups. If we had some seminar rooms we could break up classes for report purposes. It would allow for a greater variety of things."

Ms. Smith

"The best thing about the East communications department is the wealth of talent we have here. Sometimes it's not tapped however, there are people walking down the halls that are as good as the performers on stage."

Mr. Devore

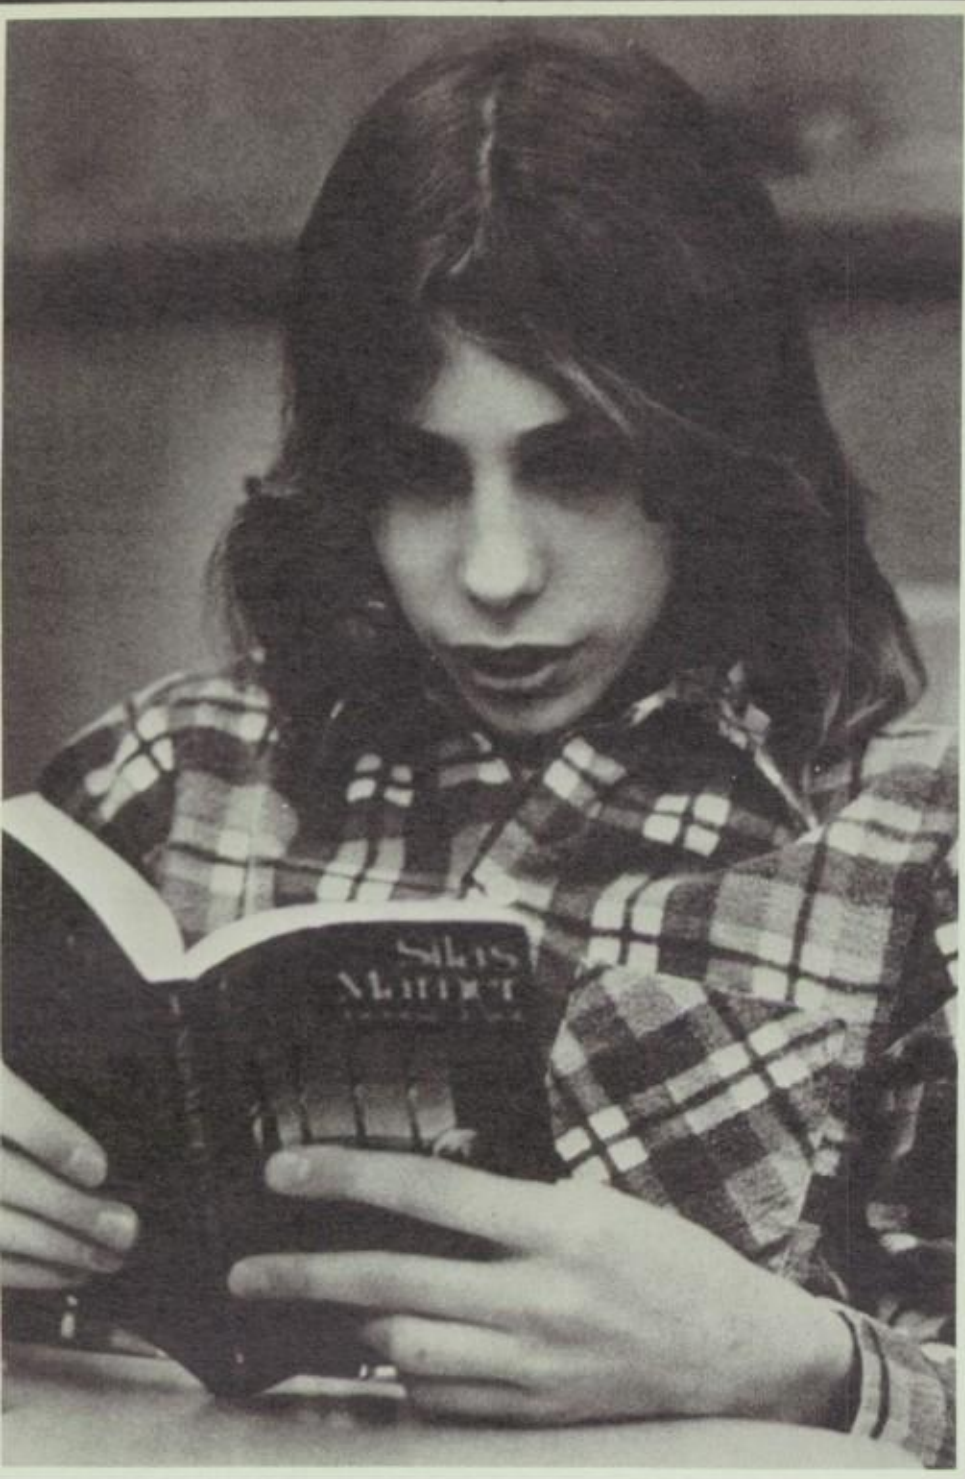

Mixed reactions accompany Mr. Goldberg's daily lecture on the use of descriptive, imaginative words. Some of his students found it interesting, even humorous, while others preferred day-dreaming.

The Communications department offered a wide variety of class. Writing courses included the composition of everything from research papers to creative poems.

The Sophomore Honors classes focused on writing, as well as the development of the students' reading skills.

The origin of the English language was the topic of discussion between Jim Murry and Everett Farr during Mrs. Cary's English class.

Industrial Arts

"Waukegan East probably has the best selection of Industrial arts course offerings in Lake County and one of the ten best print shops in the state."

Mr. Aken

"Next year the vocational programs in printing, electricity, and machine shop will be offered at the Lake County Vocational Center."

Mr. Burke

"I wish some students would be more serious about their schoolwork. It seems that some of them are just here for the ride."

Special Education

"Teachers should be able to look at kids for what they are, see weaknesses, and help to correct them. We're that much more willing to work with them."

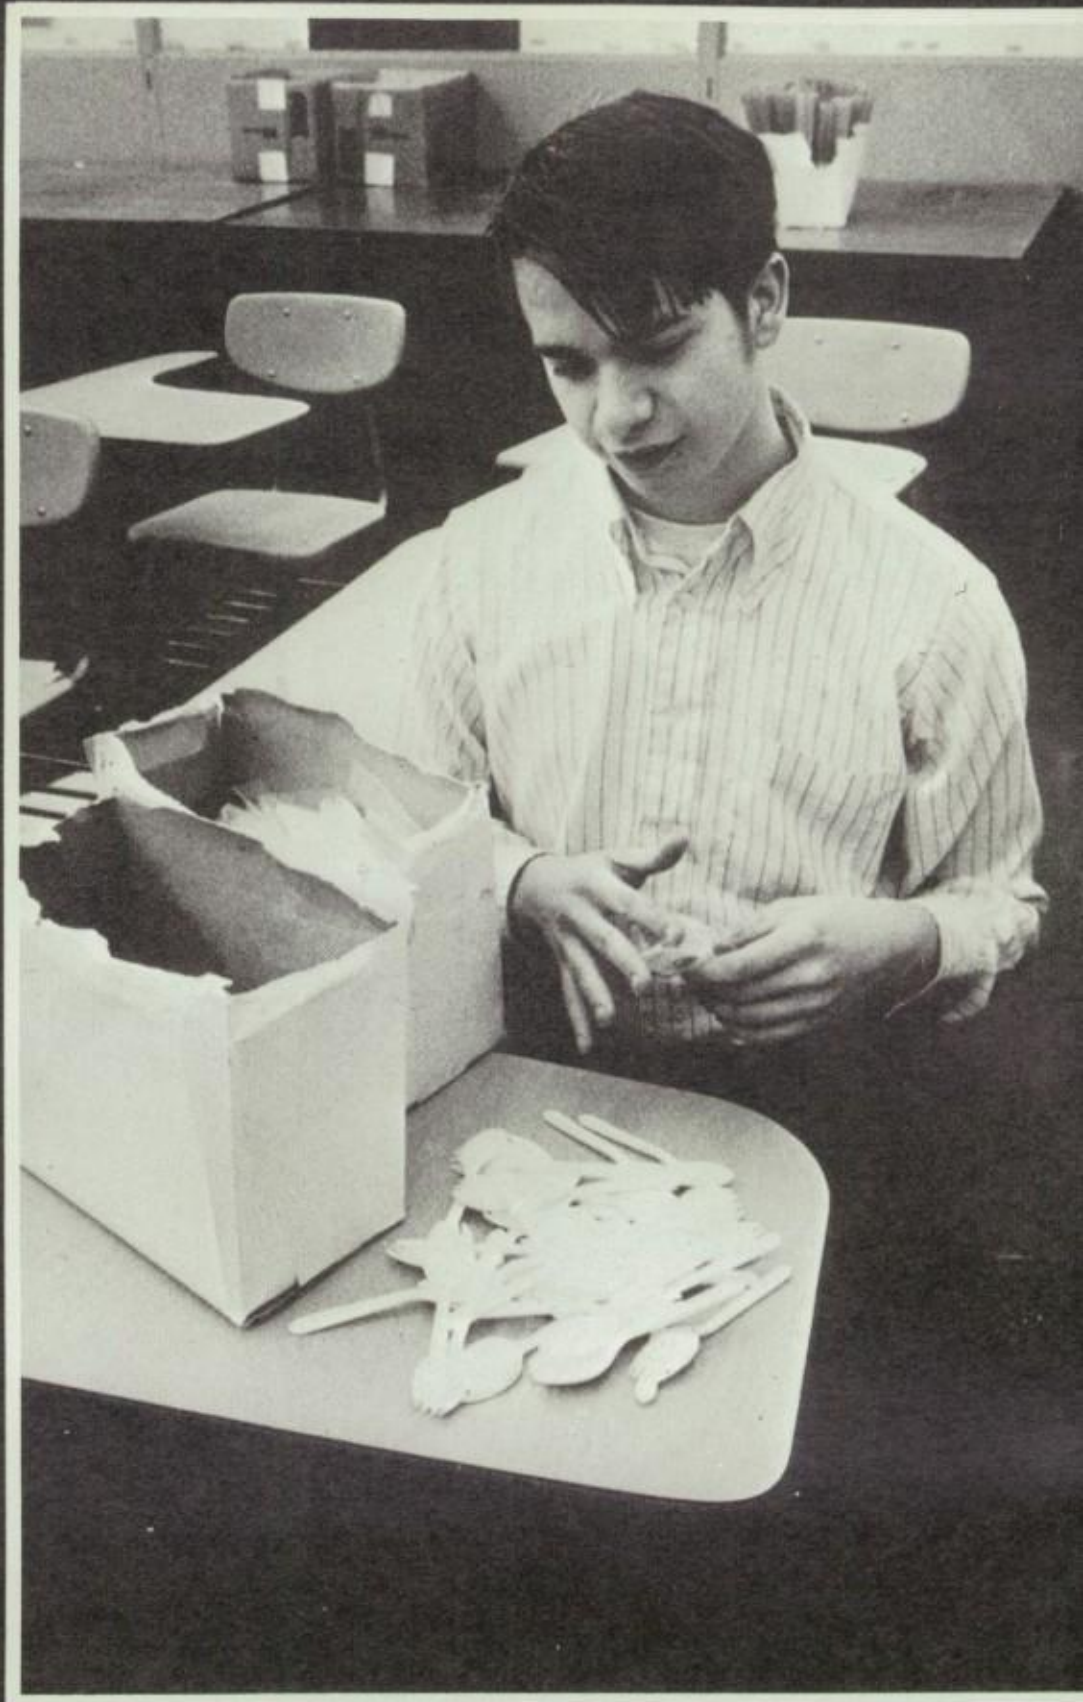

Ms. Lynn

"If I can help problem kids now, maybe later they won't burden society."

Mr. Brickert

DRIVER EDUCATION DEPARTMENT: L. TenPas, dept. chm.; D. ZumBahlen, L. Owens, D. Keiler.

Driver's Education

"We may not have a Driver's Ed. program at all because of the economic crunch. The state is making many cutbacks in aids to schools. Unfortunately, one of these proposed cutbacks is Driver's Education."

Mr. Owen

"Driving is a skill that most people use all their adult lives. It is important to everyone's health and safety that we learn to do it right from the beginning."

Mr. Keiler

The Driver Education simulators helped prepare the students for situations they would eventually encounter on the road.

Physical Education

"Everyone, students and teachers, should attempt to approach the co-ed program with a positive attitude."

Ms. Neterer

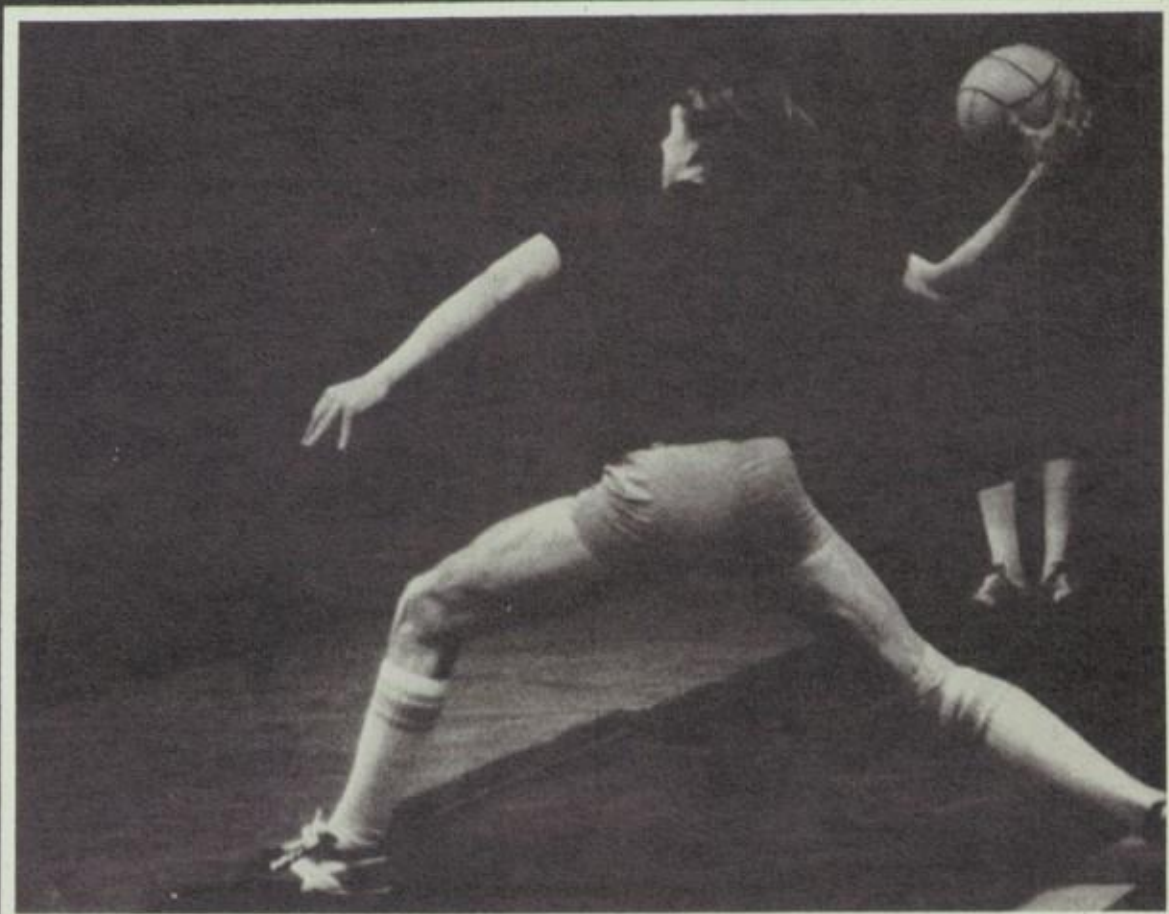

"I don't like the co-ed program because the boys and girls have different attitudes toward competition. I think it hurts both programs."

Mr. Jerdee

"For the most part, the girls in P.E. classes are enthused and willing to participate. Unfortunately, there are a few who give others a hard time and spoil class for everyone."

Art

"While some other departments are having somewhat of a problem with student interest, interest in the art department is increasing each year."

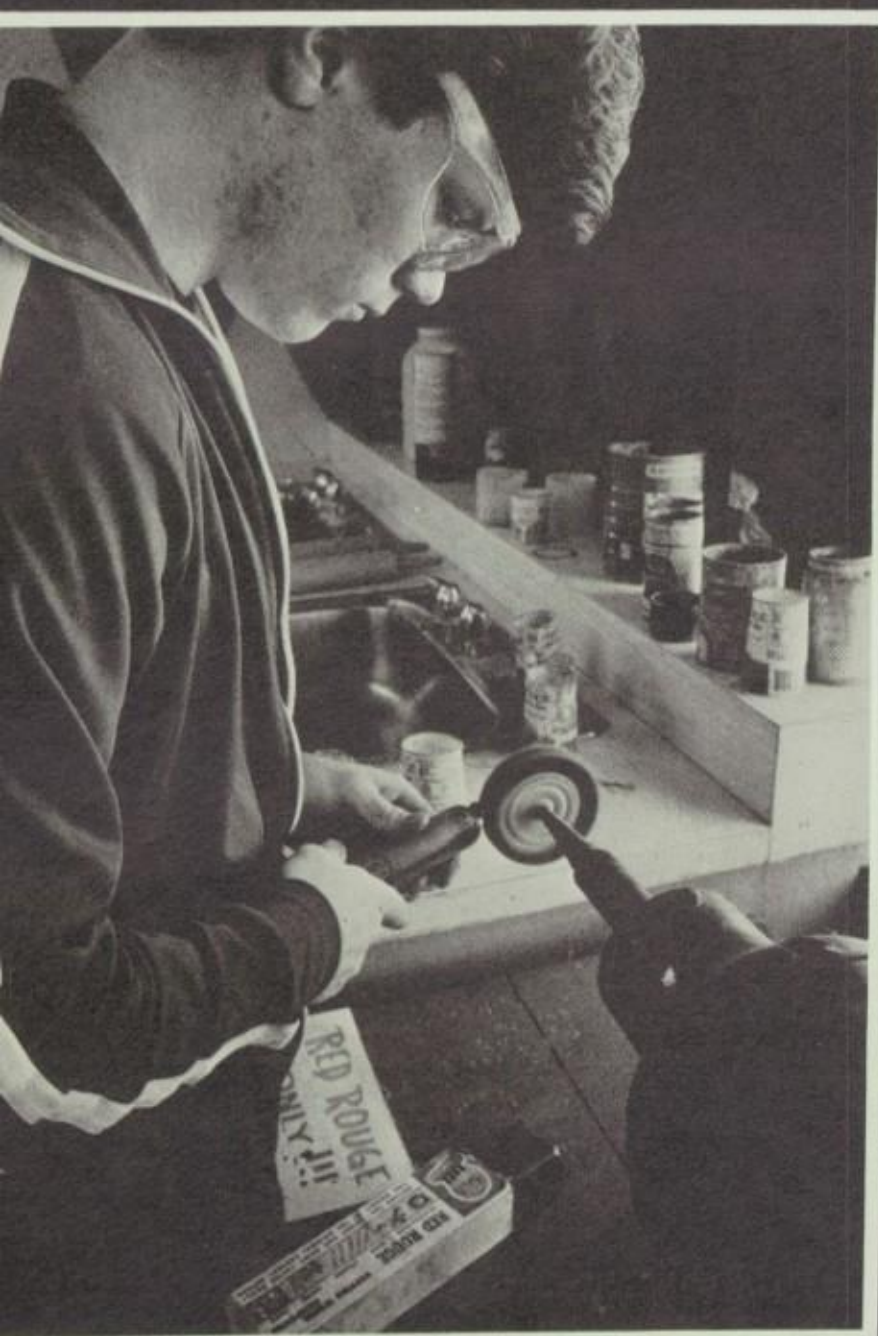

Mr. Sunderland

"Art is not a profession; it is a religion."

Mr. Misunas

"Just think . . . without art and without color, our existence would be like a dull nude picking a gray daisy."

Mr. Aarnos

Using the buffing wheel, Ron Jakubisin polished a ring he just made in craft class. By the end of the year, he had worked with wood, clay, pewter, and fool's gold.

Foreign Language

"I feel that the school administrators have every right to feel proud of the foreign language department here at East. Our faculty is very dedicated and we all are doing a good job."

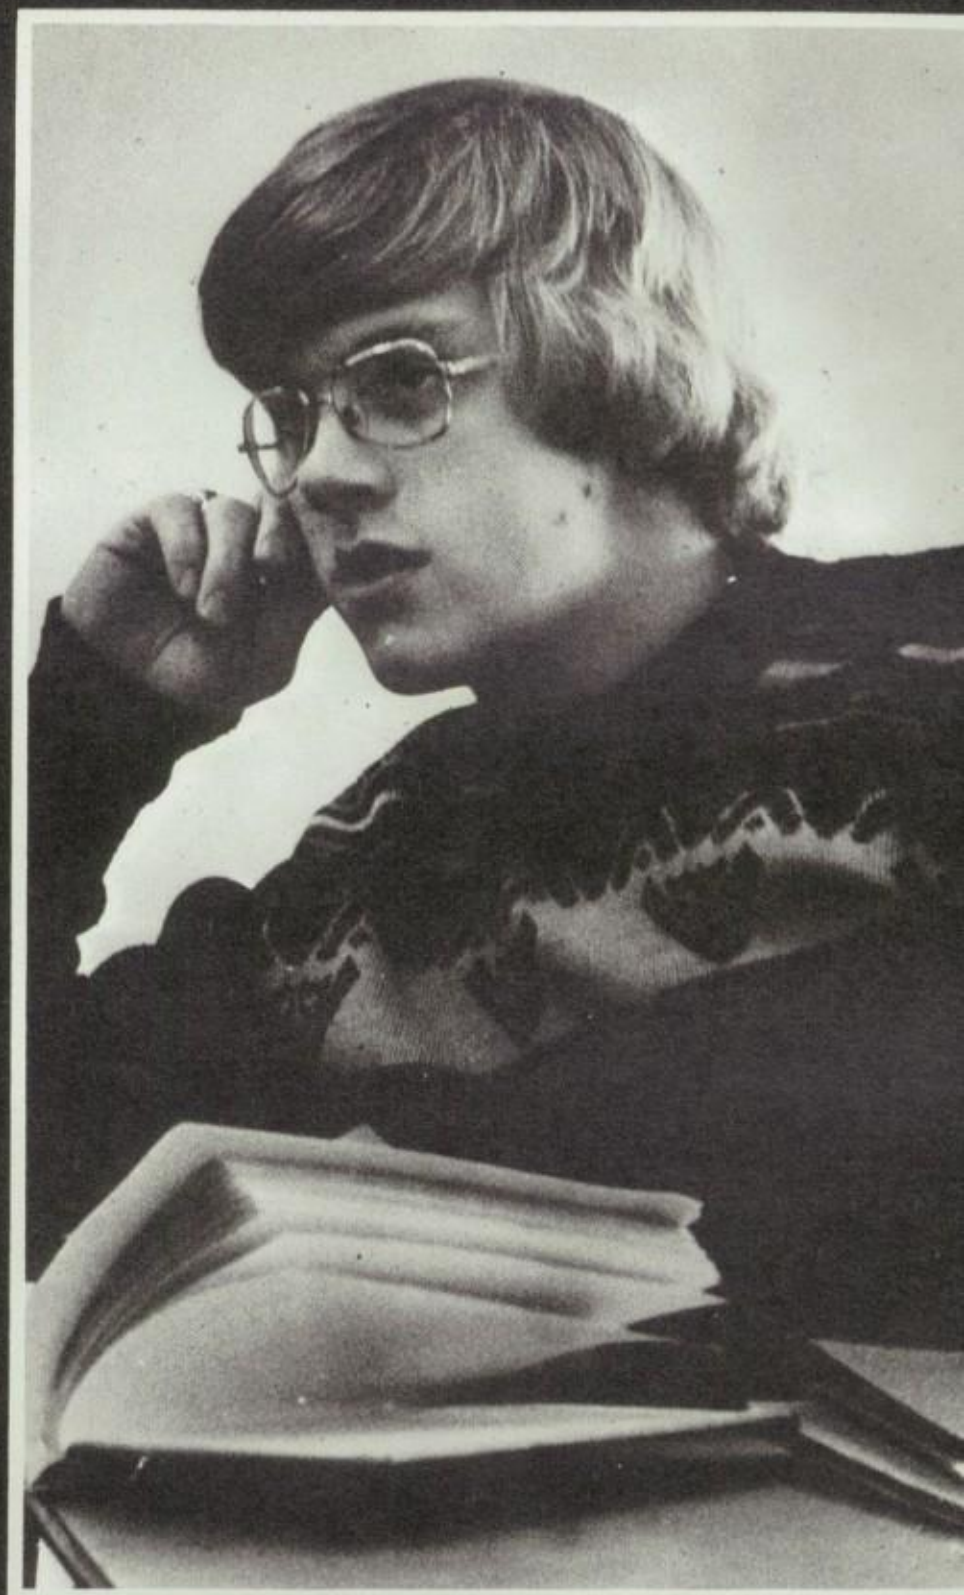

Dr. Gomez

"It is important to take a foreign language because it develops higher degrees of communication, one learns about different cultures, and one gets a better understanding of the English language."

Mr. Radakovich

"You get a much better understanding of your own language by contrasting it with another language."

Mr. Sheridan

A Time to Struggle
and a Time to Succeed

Two Gridders named to All-County team

East's biggest football problem this year was a lack of participants. "The guys who were on the team really wanted to win, but we just didn't have enough players to make it work," commented Jeff Hyde.

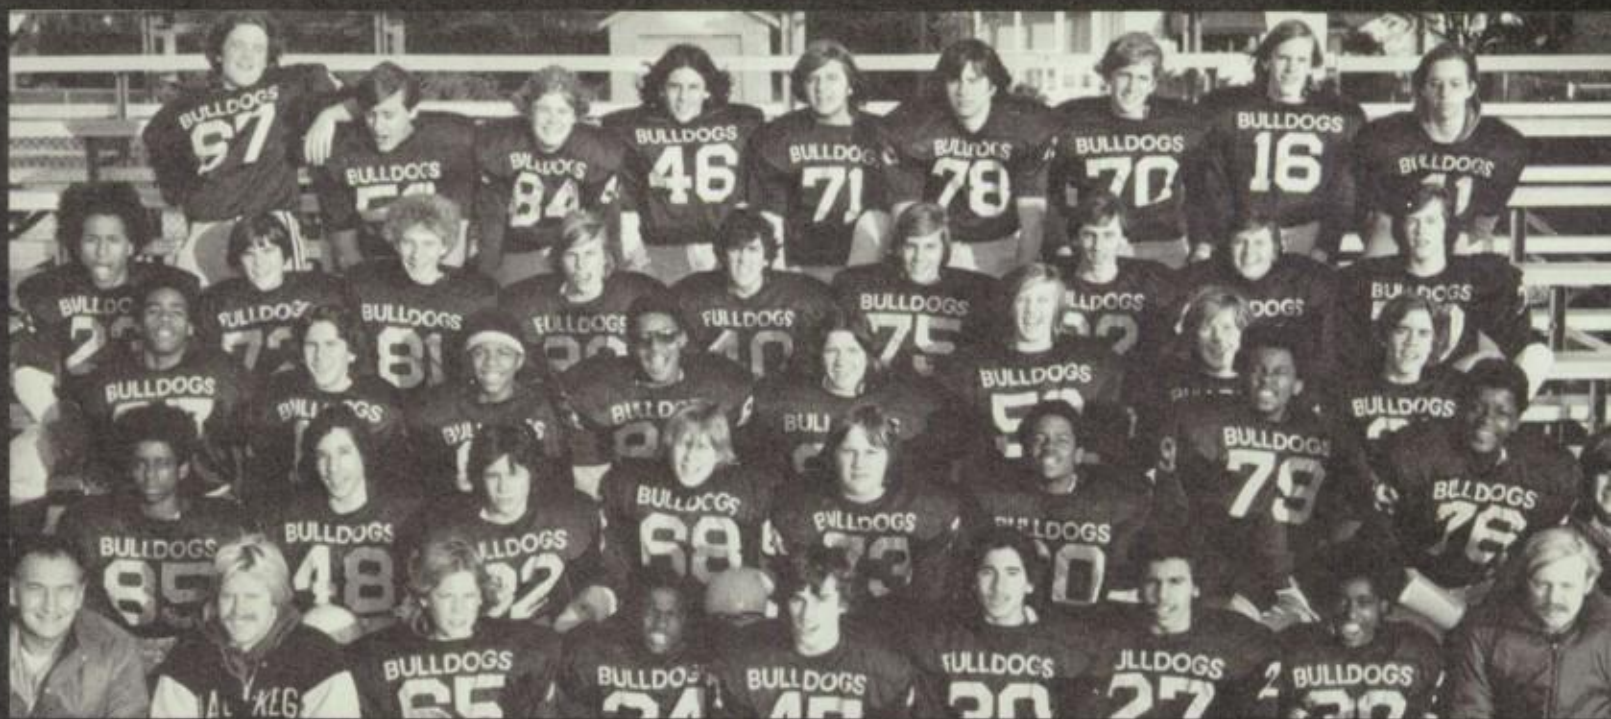

In Hyde's opinion, the closest game of the year was the game against West. "We dominated for most of the game," he said, "they were just lucky enough to score the only touchdown."

Individual honors went to Larry Jarman and Cal Livingston, as they were named to the All-County team. Doug Shroyer and Larry Knopp received honorable mention.

Bulldog quarterback Larry Jarman listens attentively as coach Jerde collaborates with asst. coach Arrington to come up with a good offensive play.

"Skeet" Tanner fights off the cold as she, along with the other football cheerleaders, leads the crowd in the school song.

"Stand up and cheer let 'em know we're here"

Tryouts for this year's football cheerleaders were held last May. However due to a lack of interest each girl participating for varsity was selected.

The 1976 season was plagued with unusually cold weather. It wasn't surprising to see the girls cheering in mittens and scarves. Mascot Dru Sefton prepared for the crisp Saturdays by wearing long underwear beneath her uniform.

A sunny day helps to make leading cheers in front of a football crowd a little easier. Part of their spirit raising was a good smile and keeping in step with the others.

st gets a lucky break as Rosel Guzman's fourth quarter shot is touched by opponent before sailing out-of-bounds. This error enabled East to regain session of the ball.

Being a cheerleader involves more than just standing on the sidelines clapping your hands. A good squad will continually try to keep the spectators enthused throughout all four of the quarters.

Soccer Cheerleaders-new uniforms, old tradition

Practices held twice a week allowed the Varsity and Sophomore Squads to put their talents together to devise floor and sideline cheers. The girls were highlighted in brand new uniforms of bright purple and gold. Varsity brought back a cheerleading tradition of wearing black and white saddle shoes.

"Despite poor attendance at the games, the cheerleaders were not discouraged.", stated Marty Ress. "The girls cheered enthusiastically, always giving full support to the team."

Knowing that too many penalties can ruin a team's chances of winning Rosel Guzman tries his best to avoid being called for using his hands.

Guzman and defense lead Bulldogs in IHSA play

The Varsity Soccer team finished in fifth place in league action and completed the season with an 8-10 record. In IHSA action, the Bulldogs pulled two upsets, squeaking by Hersey 1-0 and beating 14-2 Fremd 2-0. In the championship game of the subsectionals, Lake Forest squelched a third straight upset attempt by beating the Bulldogs 1-0 in four overtimes and a round of five penalty kicks.

"This team did excellently towards the end of the season," stated Coach Radakovich, "but we need improvement in our facilities and in other areas to bring a state championship to East." Radakovich tried to give more players a chance to play this year, while at the same time improving the team's record.

Individually, the Bulldogs' Rosel Guzman earned All-State honors, leading Coach Radakovich to say, "He showed tremendous leadership qualities and is the most versatile player I have ever coached." Carl Macuiba and Rosel earned spots on the All-Suburban team.

the new disco beat hit hard in 1976 all over the country. Even Weiss Field was struck with the craze. Waukegan's José Arias brings home the bump during a Varsity soccer game.

Boy's Golf-19th in State 2nd in Central Suburban

For the first time in East High's short history, the boy's golf team went to the IHSA state tournament in Champaign. They qualified for the trip downstate by placing second in the district meet and tying for third in the sectionals. The Bulldogs ended two days of competition by finishing nineteenth in the state.

In Central Suburban league competition, the linksmen tied for second place with a 5-1 record, losing only to league champion New Trier East.

Bulldogs Finish Fourth

"We were better than our state championship team of last year, but the competition was better too," said Holly Lee, a member of both teams. The statistics backed her up as this year's team, which finished fourth in Normal, improving last year's score by 54 strokes. The team felt the highlight of the season was Alicia Ogrin. Alicia became State Champion by shooting a two-day total of 148. She was named "Athlete of the Week" by the Chicago Tribune once and an "Outstanding Prep" three times. However, the Bulldogs weren't a one girl team as they finished the season with an undefeated 13-0 record. The girls won the Inter-Suburban League title by posting a 6-0 mark.

Girls tennis team win 60% of their matches

For the first time in the 5 year history of the Girls Tennis Team, Waukegan East won first place in districts. Sharon Gardner and Lori Ivy placed first in doubles, followed by Cindy and Diane Clark in third. Shelagh Callahan placed second in singles play. Supported by Coach Timmons, Callahan, Ivy and Gardner traveled downstate, another first in the team's history. Unfortunately the girls did not fair so well, as singles lost in the first round and doubles in the second round.

"Practicing before a meet helps a player perfect skills," explained Mary Givler, "but equally important, it prepares him mentally for his individual match."

Freshmen and Sophomores Dominate Varsity Tennis

1976 was the first year of coaching at East for both the varsity coach, Mr. Runyan, and the frosh-soph coach, Mr. Tabachnick. Both coaches agreed there was real team spirit, even though both teams were young and competition was stiff. Varsity positions of first, second, and third singles were filled by sophomores. First and second doubles were played by freshman and sophomores. In fact, the four lettermen had at most one year of experience on East teams. Playing underclassmen at the Varsity level further left the frosh-soph team with young racquet men. Their opponents were the experienced teams of the North Shore, the high school champion tennis area in the midwest.

The tankers ended their season with 2 wins and 14 losses. Coaches Mr. Yates and Mr. Hetico stressed the point in practice that "winning" didn't have to mean winning meets. Winning for each swimmer meant improving his own times and setting new records. Junior Scott Reeves set new city records in the 200 freestyle and individual medley, as well as the 100 butterfly. "It came down to the last event, and we beat 'em!" A major setback for the team was the difference in district qualifying requirements from last year. ## Wrestlers place third in district meet

Mr. TenPas and Mr. Albers coached the Varsity wrestling team to a season record of 6-5. The squad took third place at the District meet, qualifying Cal Livingston, Whitney Connors, Larry Knop, Paul Sullivan, and Dave Barnard for Sectionals. However, only Connors advanced to the state meet.

Practices were spent running and learning new moves. Whitney felt that the team stuck together well, although they lost several good men to the basketball team. Said Mr. TenPas, "I think we have hopes for a good team in the next two years, since our freshman squad only suffered one defeat this year."

Knowing "language" of wrestling essential

"Wrestling cheerleading was different than cheering for any other sport," claimed Eileen Rajala. "It involved learning new techniques and terms such as pins, take downs, break downs, and reversals." In order to learn the new wrestling maneuvers, Mr. TenPas brought the girls in to watch the team practice the different moves. Instead of rooting for a team as a whole, the wrestling cheerleaders cheered for each individual.

Practice and physical discipline are necessary for a successful wrestler. Although exhausted, Larry Knop appreciated his hard work after a winning match.

Definite advantages come with a 6'3" frame as Roosevelt Davis out-jumps his opponent. The Bulldogs went on to win the game 61-54.

Cheerleaders spell out basketball action

With the first game scheduled one week after tryouts, the newly-elected basketball cheerleaders had to work extra hard forming their routine. Each girl contributed her ideas to compose new cheers and mounts. "We worked well together," commented Paula Alston. "It would have been a more enjoyable season if we had not lacked crowd participation."

Head coach Joor felt that the best basketball played this year was during a three-game stretch when East beat three league teams in succession. "We were particularly happy with those games," Joor said, "because the boys were playing steady, fundamental basketball."

Regional title game ousts Bulldogs in IHSA tourney

"Most of the time the girls did as well as they thought they could," stated coach Kincaid. "However, they didn't always play as well as they should." The cagers started their season with three straight losses but rebounded to finish with a 6-9 record. Vanessa Hughes sparked the Bulldogs to a third place finish in the CSL North by leading the team in both scoring and rebounding. In the first IHSA Girl's Tournament, the Bulldogs defeated Zion in the first round before falling to Wauconda in the Regional Championship game.

New coach adds enthusiasm to badminton team

According to team members, the '77 season was the best one enjoyed by a Waukegan East team. Tina Watt felt that the big difference was in coaching. "Ms. Floros was fantastic!" she said, "We just did not believe how much she knew."

The team's season was full of surprises such as their upset of dominant Highland Park. "That was really a thrill" commented Cathy Schwab. "It showed us that we were better then we thought."

In competition, a badminton player must make careful use of strategy. Kim McDonald remains alert to any surprise move her opponent may make.

Not wanting the meet to last any longer than necessary, coaches at the Waukegan meets chose to use all three courts simultaneously.

A moment before the action starts finds mixed emotions among the baseball players. Jack Emerick and Mike Doyle take time to relax while their teammates psyche up for the game.

The East-West rivalry is not strictly for students. Here, East coach Jim Mallory tries to persuade the umpire to reverse a decision he made in West's favor.

District baseball title returns to Waukegan

The Waukegan East varsity baseball team completed their first season in the Central Suburban League by finishing in second place with a 7-5 record. Their overall record was 10-1, which led coach Jack Mallory to say, "We were as good as any team in the county but we didn't play up to our potential."

With eight senior starters, the Bulldogs were one of the most experienced teams in the area. They placed three members on the All-League team: Jack Emerick, Jim Henry, and Rick Larson.

In IHSA District play, the Bulldogs emerged as champions by defeating North Chicago 13-9 and Waukegan West 12-0. However, that's as far as they went, losing to Grant, 1-0, in the first game of Regionals.

The Bulldogs were led by Co-Captain and MVP Jack Emerick with a .424 batting average and Co-Captain Jim Henry with a .327 average and a 7-3 pitching record.

Team member Lori Sackman athlete of the year

Thirty girls comprised the 1976 Varsity and Junior Varsity teams at East.

Six runs in the bottom of the seventh brought the Bulldogs a victory over their crosstown rival, Waukegan West. In District play, the first game was lost to Deerfield at Belvidere Park.

Team members were honored at the Spring Sports Awards Night. Shortstop Tammy Koziol was named Most Valuable Player. First Baseman Lori Sackman was presented with the Player of the Year Award.

By following the instructions of coach Laura Stark, Alicia Kapheim keeps her eye on the ball in hopes of bringing home the winning run. (above)

As the opposing pitcher and first-baseman attempt to catch her off the bag, Linnae Miscichowski is forced to think twice about stealing second. (below)

Waukegan Spikers fight hard against New Trier

Junior Cindy Machak felt that the Varsity squad had the potential to go downstate, but didn't have the confidence a good volleyball team needs.

Team members agreed that one of the closer matches of the year was the one played against New Trier East. Outstanding players were acknowledged at the Annual Winter Awards Night Banquet.

The success of a relay often depends on the speed of the last runner. Dirk Ostrander sprints through the rain driving hard to break the finish line.

Track team pleased with results of district meet.

The track season this spring was considered a "success" by coaches Lorenc and Bradley. The team qualified in three different events at the District Meet, the two mile run by Dave Erdal, the two mile relay, and the 440 relay. In Mr. Bradley's opinion, the team did "better than anticipated" and, looking to the future, he expects them to do well next year. He also feels, "They are a very close group with more spirit than any other I've seen."

Girls track team sends six to State Tourney

East Girls Track team qualified six players for state. Finishing the season with a 5-1 record, the runners handed continuous defeats to their opponents, including a 57-22 win over crosstown rival West early in the season. "A lot more girls tried out this season than in past years," team member Cindy Frick said, "Even though we weren't all returning letterwomen, we had ambitions, and that's what we really needed." East placed third in the newly initiated West Invitational, but advanced to second in both the Lake Forest Invitational and the Central Suburban League Division.

Precision timing and intense concentration, the factors necessary to excel as a hurdler are incorporated here by Mary Sue Lapish.

Grace Turner, determined to capture first place in the 440 relay, hands off the baton to Debbie Adams, anchorman for the team.

Coach has positive outlook on runners

Despite the fact that the Cross Country Varsity team had only two seniors, the records show they had a successful season. According to Bob Pelley, returning letterman of the Varsity team, the Nilse Invitational proved to be the "most exciting meet all season." Out of twenty-four places, Varsity took third and Freshmen first.

This year the Cross Country team had an addition of five girls. It is hoped that these five and more will form a complete girls' team next year. Also looking to the future, Mr. Bradley, the coach, sees a prospective Varsity team on the rise," as the freshmen placed second in the county after winning the Conference Meet.

sophomore Jean Miller was the only girl on the rifle team this year. She made the varsity team as a Freshman when she scored the required 240 points.

Craig Dreyer, rifle team captain and highest scorer, takes steady aim in the kneeling position-one of the three stances required in competition.

Concentration essential to good marksmanship

One sport which originated in the early years of Waukegan High School was the Rifle Team. Comprised of ROTC students, the Rifle Team competed as an official ISHA sport. Their opponents were schools from Wisconsin, as well as Illinois. Three hour practices were held weekly. "Team members shot for a personal achievement," commented Sgt. Ely. "It takes extreme concentration to line your sights to hit the bull's-eye fifty feet away."

Gymnast Patty O'Grady competes downstate

Girls selected for this year's gymnastics team were required to become proficient in four areas: floor exercise, vault, beam, and uneven bars. The team members competed on both the compulsory and optional levels.

Patty O'Grady and Christie Kaye were the two all-around gymnasts in District competition. Scoring a 7.35 on her vault, Patty qualified for the state meet held at Maine East. Commented Miss Abbott, "The biggest individual accomplishment was Patty becoming eligible for downstate competition." This was the first IHSA state meet for girls gymnastics.

Gymnasts host Lake County Invitational

The Bulldogs had a season record of 2-9, an improvement over last year's. Waukegan East hosted the Lake County Invitational Meet, where Varsity member Eugene Diaz placed first in free exercise by scoring an 8.3. Eugene later became eligible for the preliminary free exercise competition at the state meet, although he did not qualify in the finals. Mark Schantz was the team's leader in all-around.

Intramurals set out to provide physical activities, however the majority spent most of their time in the weight room.

Students stay in shape during their off season

The Intramural program was suited to those interested in physical exercise. Mr. Nosek was in charge of the students who met three times a week after school. This year's program was concentrated on general conditioning, in the weight room, which accommodated an average of twenty to fifty participants. Intramural activities also include basketball, and volleyball.

Students participating in school sports took advantage of Intramurals to get them in shape for their athletic season. Mr. Nosek instructed students in their personal improvement conditioning. "It's important to get involved in some physical activity," said Mr. Nosek, "such as Intramurals, for student development."

Intramural weights provided students with a chance to develop their muscles and round themselves into good shape for upcoming sports seasons.

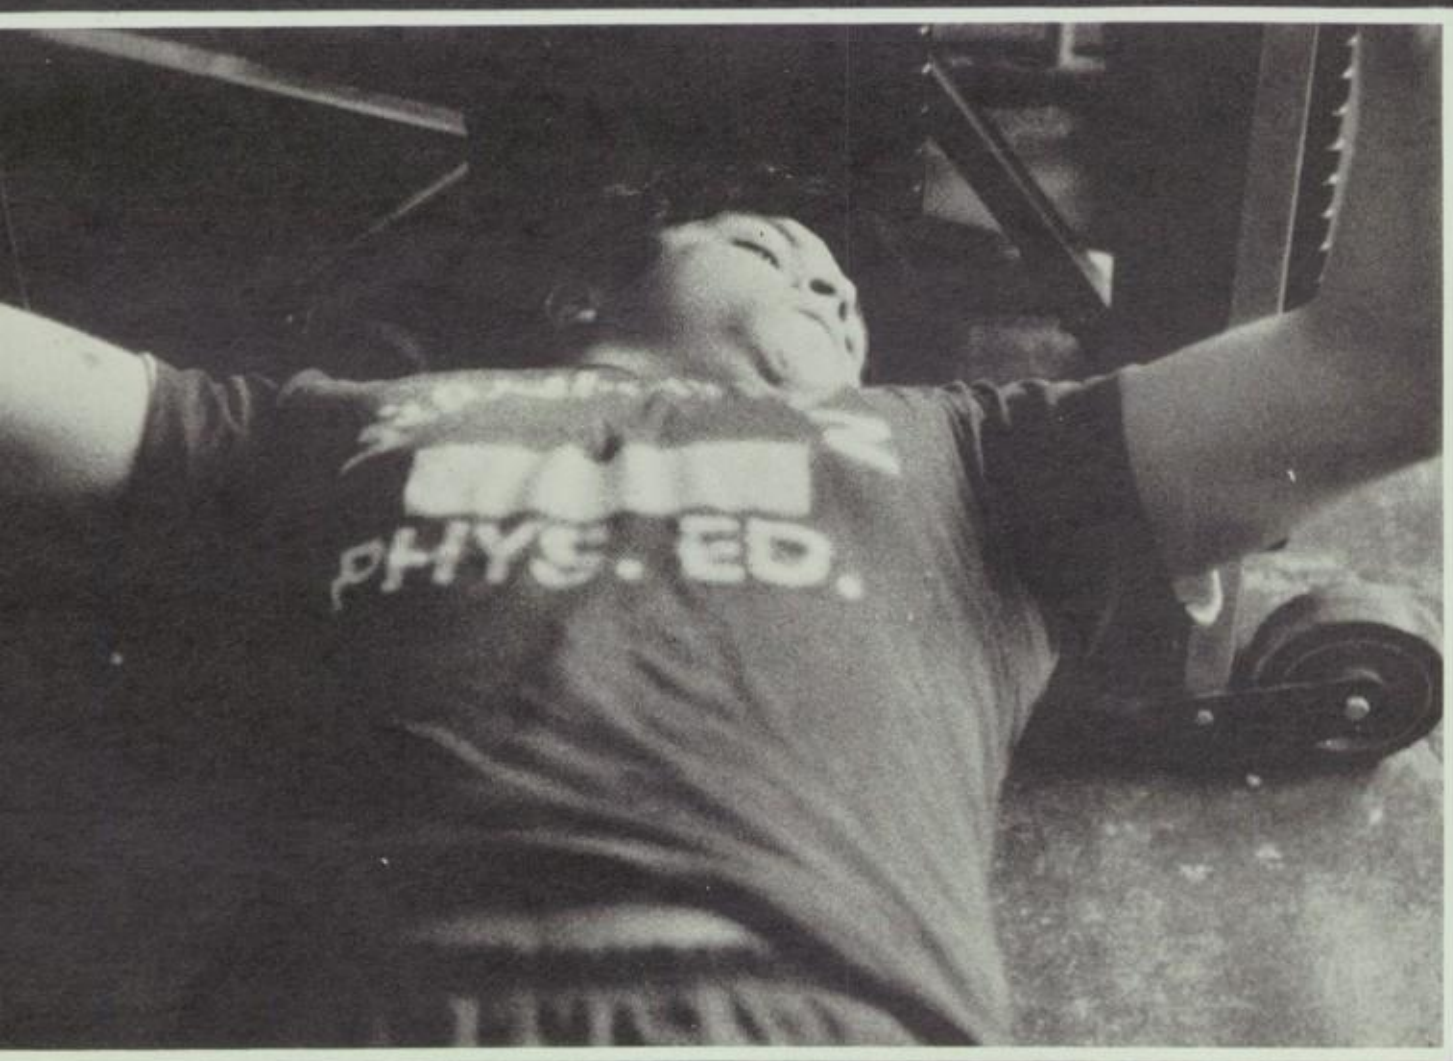

Instead of the usual weightlifting and basketball, some students chose to run laps, hoping to build their stamina for the spring sports.

Mr. Nosek's weightlifting program included curling, an exercise designed to strengthen the biceps.

A devoted athlete knows the importance of a strong upper arm. Students worked out after school to attain this goal.

The controversial subject of capital punishment came to the public's attention in 1976. On July 19, Gary Gilmore robbed and murdered a gas station attendant. Gilmore was convicted and sentenced to death. The execution was postponed twice but Gilmore was determined to die. He attempted suicide. Failing, he petitioned the court for the execution to go ahead. Lawyers argued that his desire to die by firing squad tantamount to committing suicide. Finally Gary Gilmore was executed by a firing squad on January 17 at the age of thirty-six.

After the Democratic Convention and Carter's election as the Democratic's Presidential Candidate, it was figured that he and his running-mate Walter Mondale would receive 68 to 70% of the nation's votes, thanks to dissention between Ford-Reagon backers. The Republican Convention was almost a marathon, lasting a full week before Ford edged Reagon out for the nomination. With Robert Dole as his Vice-Presidential candidate Ford rapidly closed the gap, nearly winning the election. One of Ford's setbacks on his comeback trail was Earl Butz's racial slur that, unfortunately for Ford, occurred at the heart of the election rush. At one point prior to the election, all Carter's campaigning, which included a visit to Waukegan, seemed to have been in vain, for he was severely criticized for giving a revealing personal interview to Playboy magazine in which he admitted that he, in his mind, had "... lusted after several women." For the second time in history, the two presidential candidates met on prime-time television for "The Great Debates." It was felt that these confrontations did not have much of an effect on the elections' outcome, for the opponents never actually challenged one another to argue over the issues. The two candidates merely re-reviewed their campaign platforms. Since the election of the many-sided Georgian to president, the country is entering into a new era in government. One of Carter's first steps in the office was to re-introduce the "fireside chat." Soon after, Carter gave America a chance to "Ask the President." A total of only 42 calls got through to the nation's leader as hundreds of thousands of frustrated callers found their lines jammed by busy signals.

Some African nations refused to attend the Montreal Olympics because differences in political opinion. In many people's eyes, the issue destroyed the atmosphere of friendly competition between nations. Nadia Comaneci held a star performance at the 1976 Olympics, winning seven perfect scores in gymnastics. The 14 year old, Romanian girl caused many controversial attitudes because her perfect 10-point scores were unprecedented in the Olympics. Although the U.S. was not successful in gymnastics, Brian Goodell and John Nabor received gold medals in swimming and Bruce Jenner won the Decathlon.

On November 7-8, 1976, Americans viewed "Gone With the Wind" for the first time on national television. The rights of the 1939 Academy Award winning film were purchased by NBC for several million dollars.

After 28 years of controlling the People's Republic of China, Chairman Mao Tse-tung died September 9, 1976. Mao's political career began after his peasant centered revolution enabled Communists to seize power. Later he composed doctrines that have affected foreign policies. Through the Cultural Revolution of the 1960's, Mao raised national pride, allowing China to be one of the great powers. Following a bitter power struggle, Technocrat Hua Kuo-feng became Chairman Mao's successor.

By enrolling in Thadeus Stevens Elementary, Amy Carter became the first President's child to attend a Washington public school since Teddy Roosevelt's son Quentin. Her pet dog, a mixed breed named Grits, was a gift from her new fourth grade teacher.

In 1976 Baruch Blumberg was awarded the Noble Prize in medicine for his research concerning the origin of the hepatitis virus. Six other Americans also won Nobels, including two Chicagoans, novelist Saul Bellow and Economist Milton Friedman.

Friday, February fourth at 5:25 p.m. a C.T.A. elevated train filled with commuters hit another train. The first and third cars crashed to the street. Eleven persons were killed and 160 were injured. An issue was made that the motorman had smoked marijuana in the seventy-two hour period prior to the crash.

The dramatic changes in the weather patterns of the winter 1976-77 sent the temperatures plummeting across the country. Citrus-fruit growers in the south fired up nighttime heaters in an futile attempt to save their groves. Citizens of Buffalo, New York were smothered in 126.6 inches of snow while storms avoid areas normally blanketed in white. Snow-making machines were used in Sun Valley, Idaho and even then only three of its sixty runs were kept open. In the farm belt, the wind and the lack of moisture caused serious soil erosion. The low temperatures created a natural gas shortage which closed many schools and businesses especially in the East.

Newly-elected Republican County Board member, Alice B. Shorts, was arrested by Zion police for alleged offenses stemming from a traffic violation. She later claimed brutality against the arresting officer, Robert Buege. Though he was suspended by Zion's Republican mayor for the incident, he was later reinstated. Mrs. Shorts pleaded guilty to one of her charges.

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley died on Decemeber 20, 1976 at the age of 74. He served the citizens of Chicago as mayor for 21 years. Daley also was the chairman of the Cook County Democratic Party, establishing himself as a national power. Upon hearing the news of Daley's death, Chicago fell into a state of shock. Among those attending his funeral were President-Elect Jimmy Carter, Senator Ted Kennedy, Governor-Elect Jim Thompson, and the Rev. Jesse Jackson. While plans were being made for the funeral, the City Council huddled to find a replacement. After a harsh political struggle, Michael Bilandic was selected as acting mayor. In six months a special election would be held to choose a new mayor.

A new sex symbol arose in the U.S. this year—Miss Farrah Fawcett-Majors. The Farrah craze swept the country as the actress and her promoters gained millions of posters, t-shirts, and buttons. To top off her mountain of wealth, she starred in the series "Charlie's Angels", which turned out to be the number one show of the year. One of the more publicized events was a Farrah look-alike contest in Detroit that featured the winner sporting Farrah's popular "wind-blown" hair style.

During the 1976 election year, many changes took place in government. On the local level, incumbent Jack Hoogasian lost to Dennis Ryan in the race for Lake County State's Attorney. Ryan was the first democrat to occupy the office. In the Illinois governor's race, Michael Howlett, tarnished by his primary fight, never gave James Thompson, a popular federal prosecutor, much of a race. Thompson won easily. Federally, the House Ethics Committee found U.S. Rep. Wayne Hays guilty of having a mistress on his payroll. Elizabeth Ray, the "Washington Fringe Benefit," capitalized on her notoriety by testifying, "I can't type. In fact, I can't even answer the phone."

On March 20, 1977 Alice Memmer became the first female Episcopal Priest in the Chicago area. Rev. Quintin E. Primo, Jr., auxiliary bishop of Chicago, officiated the services. Rev. Memmer had been ordained a deacon in 1975. However the Episcopal Church's General Convention did not pass the motion to ordain women until late last year. Memmer is presiding over St. Lawrence Church in Libertyville.

The United States was forced to take notice of Uganda's President-for-life, Field Marshall Idi Amin Dada, in March of 1977. From the start of the presidency in 1971, rumors told of murders of hundreds if not thousands of Ugandans. When Jimmy Carter declared that the reported murder of Archbishop Janani Luwum and two Cabinet ministers had "disgusted the entire civilized world," Amin retaliated by involving Americans personally. He forbade the 200 or so Americans living in Uganda from leaving. He later freed them, typical to his erratic behavior. Such behavior had not only ruined Uganda's economy but had left many in fear of Big Daddy and his personal goon squad.

The backroom is empty, the tables are cleared, the darkroom is deserted. The last shipment has gone to press. We disagreed over the theme, pictures and cover. The tears, lost negatives, and missed deadlines are all behind us now. Our work is done.

The rest is up to you. If you think our mad work meetings and morning sessions were in vain; we've failed.

We hope after reading your Annual, you as an individual will feel a part of the whole.

Tuna,
I'm glad you got into the plays more this year. You have a talent for cheating; it's obvious. Good luck in whatever you choose to do.
Make wise decisions and don't rush into anything you're not sure of. It's your life you'll be deciding for.

From Gina Capra

Tina - Please really listen to what I'm saying, because I mean it. It's not just a bunch of "annual talk."

It's been great knowing you all these years, & I have been really enriched by our friendship. I wouldn't have ever wanted to give up knowing you. Please continue to seek God as you go on in life. You will be making the most important decisions in your life the next few years & He wants to help you -- don't go along without Him. Just always remember He loves you more than me or anyone else. I know He can make you happy & I really want that for you. Don't feel you have to copy any of the Christians you know or be like them. Just read His word and pray, & He will guide you the way He wants you to be! Don't ever let anyone try to make you just like them, or the way they want you to be. You just always try to be the person you want to be, deep in your heart, & know you should be. Remember, you're a beautiful person the way you are right now. You are a very important and special unique person, & very valuable. Keep growing in love for other people like you have shown to me and our friends in high school. People may be very different from each other, but build a bridge and not a wall to people you know. No matter how different & unique we all may be, love is our common ground. Honor all people, including yourself. You deserve it.

I'm glad to see how you are continuing to use your dramatic talents and further develop them. Keep it up! You will always have a lot of fun, I'm sure! I really think it's great!

I hope we always keep in touch! I'd like to see you years from now when you get a job & get married & have a son the next of your life. I'd love to see your kids years from now! Keep the good smile & personality! Love, your sister,
